Republics of Two Americas Celebrate "Pan-America Day"

Washington—(P)—President Hoover today envisioned western hemisphere nations in the near future as settling every major difference by the "orderly processes of conciliation and arbitration."

Leading official Washington in its celebration of the first Pan-American day, which simultaneously was observed throughout the 21 Latin American republics, the chief executive described the common purpose of the Americas to eliminate war as a major contribution to modern civilization.

He spoke before the governing board of the Pan-American union, and was followed by Secretary Stimson, speaking as chairman of the board; Ambassador Tellez of Mexico, dean of the Washington diplomatic corps; and Ambassador Ferrara of Cuba.

By proclamation of President Hoover, flags were displayed in the capital as on national holidays and exercises were arranged throughout the day at the Pan-American Union building. At the opening of the American league baseball season the president was one of those to arise and salute the raising of the flags of each western hemisphere nation while the United States army band was called upon to play the various national anthems.

Benefits of Harmony

President Hoover recalled that during his 1923 visit to 11 Latin American countries, it became increasingly evident to him that the various nations have everything to gain by keeping in close contact with each other and by developing a spirit of cooperation having its roots in reciprocal understanding of national aims and aspirations.

"A peculiar heavy responsibility rests upon the nations of the western hemisphere," the chief executive said, "a responsibility which, at the

FORMER BANKER SENT TO LEAVENWORTH PRISON

Chicago—(P)—John E. Malloy, 29, former assistant cashier of the Lawrence Avenue National bank, was sentenced to four years in Leavenworth penitentiary and fined $5,000 by Federal Judge Fred L. Wham today, convicted of making false entries with fraudulent intent. The bank has been closed since the discovery of defalcations estimated at $60,000. Malloy was acquitted of charges of embezzlement and of conspiring to rob the bank on New Year's day.

LOAD OF FURNITURE BURNED WITH TRUCK

Elkhorn—(P)—Daniel Smith drove away from a truck home here today loaded with a load of furniture repossessed by a Beloit furniture store, but the goods never was delivered—fire destroyed it and the truck. Smith drove for 3 miles with the back end of the truck in flames, apparently ignorant of the fire until a bus driver caught up with him and informed him.

Five Held In Bank Holdup At Spooner

Three Suspects Confess and Implicate Others, Officials Say

Spooner, Wis.—(P)—Five men were held today in connection with the $7,500 robbery of the State Bank of Spooner. Three have confessed, Washburn-co authorities said, and implicated the others, one an employee of the bank. All but a few hundred dollars of the loot was recovered.

The three who committed the robbery, according to the reported confessions, are Robert Schwab and William Price, Minneapolis, and Charles Bushey, Spooner. H. B. Norwick, assistant cashier who was held up while alone in the bank yesterday afternoon, and Earl Costello, Minneapolis, were the two named in the confessions. They are held here. The others are in the county jail at Shell Lake. Sheriff J. J. Waggoner said charges probably would be filed today.

Officers said Price and Schwab entered the bank, hid up Norwick and bound him. He was left lying on the floor when the two departed after looting the cash drawers. They fled in an automobile kept ready by Bushey, the officers said. Bushey remained in Spooner.

D. H. Baiting, a customer, entered the bank shortly after the robbery and released Norwick. Four citizens, Thomas Devine, game warden, Louis Isabella, Joseph Masang and William Hobbs started in pursuit of the robber car. They captured the two men seven miles from town. There was no shooting.

Bushey was arrested a short time later when Sheriff Waggoner became suspicious of his actions.

The trio's confessions, officers said, involved Norwick and Costello as planning the robbery, with the Minneapolis man furnishing the guns and the automobile used.

Norwick and Costello denied having any connection with the robbery.

MINORITY IN STEEL FIGHT WINS POINT

Court Order Delays Showdown in Battle Against "Bonus Plan"

Newark, N. J.—(P)—The management of the Bethlehem Steel corporation announced at the post-noon meeting today that it had obtained the proxies of 52,867 stockholders holding a total of 3,023,086 shares of preferred and common stock, constituting approximately 72 per cent of the outstanding stock. The proxies had been solicited by Charles M. Schwab, chairman, and in support of the bonus plan.

Newark, N. J.—(P)—Minority stockholders of the Bethlehem Steel corporation today announced that they would fight the corporation's "bonus plan," under which $36,000,000 has been paid to officers since 1917.

Two hours before the annual stockholders meeting was to be called this afternoon the minority group obtained a restraining order from Vice Chancellor Backes.

The order prevents the stockholders' meeting from making an official record of any action it may take concerning the bonus; but it stipulates that the stockholders may vote on the proposition and that the result of the vote—be it for or against—may be filed with the secretary of the meeting, but it must not appear in the minutes of today's meeting until it has been approved by the court.

The vice chancellor's action was taken in Trenton earlier in the day, but the order was signed here. First reports from Trenton indicated that the vice chancellor had prohibited any announcement of the result of today's vote. This proved erroneous when the text of the order was made public.

BURGLARS ENTER FOUR PLACES AT WALWORTH

Walworth, Wis.—(P)—Burglars looted three business establishments here last night and a fourth just outside of town, escaping with miscellaneous merchandise. The Walworth Lumber company's warehouse was looted of 3,500 pounds of grain, and feed. About $150 worth of merchandise, including a radio, was taken from three filling stations.

TROOPS FIGHT FIRE

Paris—(P)—Troops were called out this afternoon to help fight a fire which raged for three hours in oil warehouses at Batignolles station. The damage was estimated at $1,000,000.

16 SAFE AFTER NIGHT SPENT IN AIR CHAMBERS

New Smoke-ejecting Device Clears Air Shaft for Imprisoned Men

Chicago—(P)—A blazing tunnel deep under one of Chicago's principal thoroughfares was the death chamber of 11 men today. A twelfth, a policeman, was cut down as he stood at his post of duty above the scene of disaster, killed by a speeding ambulance.

Sixteen escaped suffocation by a dash for freedom after a night of terror in a safety chamber where life was preserved by a steady stream of fresh air from the pumps above. Thirty-five more, most of them firemen, were patients at hospitals, all reported recovering from the effects of burns and lethal gases.

Seventy-five men were employed in or near the tunnel when fire of undetermined origin turned it into a death trap last night.

Many ran to safety at the first alarm, and it was not believed that any of them were still in the tunnel.

The dead workmen failed to reach the elevator shaft fast enough after the flames, licking at timber supports and sawdust had created a deadly gas.

Three firemen, among the first to answer the alarm, rushed into the bore without masks and were carried out dead by their comrades hours later.

One theory of the cause of the fire was that a workman, inspecting

OPPOSES REQUEST FOR JOINT RADIO STATION

Washington—(P)—A radio commission examiner today recommended that the proposal to construct a new five kilowatt radio station near Stevens Point, Wis., be denied.

The University of Wisconsin and the state's agriculture department proposed to the commission the new station be substituted for the university station, WJIA at Madison and the department of agriculture station, WJLB at Stevens Point.

The application was opposed by WJEA at Buffalo, N. Y., and WJAD owned and operated at Marquette University at Milwaukee.

Examiner Pratt said that apparently the service proposed by the consolidated station could be rendered by WJIA and WJLB if they were to cooperate to the fullest extent in their present operating assignments. Pratt's report is subject to action by the commission.

AWAIT NEXT MOVE IN KIDNAPING OF BREWER

Monroe, Wis.—(P)—City and county authorities continued to await developments today in the supposed kidnaping of Fred L. Blumer, Monroe brewer, missing five days and believed held for $150,000 ransom.

Neither Sheriff Myron West nor Chief of Police J. H. Schwaiger were pressing the investigation, they said.

The apparent quiescent attitude of local peace officers added to the belief that the Blumer family and official of the near-beer brewing company which Blumer heads are negotiating with the kidnapers. The search was called off at their request.

Further support for this theory was seen in Sheriff West's apparent refusal to take notice of an anonymous letter received by Pat Roche, chief investigator of Cook-co state's attorney's office, saying Blumer was held prisoner in a summer hotel near Elkhorn. Wis. Gangsters are known to have frequented the resort.

IOWA FARMERS DEBATE THEIR FURTHER STAND

Tipton, Iowa—(P)—A mass meeting of objectors to the bovine tuberculosis test law was called this morning at the William Butterbrook farm near here to consider the report of representatives at Governor Dan Turner's Iowa City conference.

The meeting was expected to determine whether the protesting farmers, who last week clashed with state veterinarians, will permit the tests to continue.

Brussels—(P)—King Albert today celebrated his 56th birthday. The king reviewed the garrison troops. The birthday was last Wednesday but the celebration was deferred until today.

Begin Rebuilding Homes Destroyed By Flames In Forest Area Of 2 States

Milwaukee—(P)—Residents of fire-infested forest and marshland areas in northern Wisconsin and upper Michigan projected rehabilitation plans today while struggling blazes gradually subsided or were brought under control.

Cooling north breezes soothed the flagging spirits of the "vacationland" settlers as they turned to tasks of rebuilding homes, farm buildings, communication lines and fences destroyed by the flames. Many homeless persons took consolation in the fact no lives were lost.

Forest rangers and conservation officers were directing operations in the vicinity of Crandon, Wis., and Menominee, Mich., where the worst of the fires were localized. Fire patrols were maintained in these districts although the hazard to towns and isolated dwellings was materially lessened.

Intervention of state agencies in behalf of the stricken residents was forecast by the passage in the state

LA FOLLETTE RAPS HOOVER FOR SPEECH

Senator Asks What President Is Doing to Meet "National Emergency"

Washington—(P)—Attacking President Hoover's speech before the American Red Cross yesterday Senator La Follette today demanded to know what the president was doing to meet the "national emergency" caused by unemployment.

The Wisconsin Republican, in a formal statement, said the president and those who have opposed federal contributions to relieve distress "should remember that the humanity is now suffering millions of people will not continue on the ragged edge of starvation indefinitely."

The senator contended funds must be provided adequately to care for the distress resulting from unemployment, because local funds are becoming exhausted.

Referring to president's praise of the Red Cross for its refusal to accept federal funds and his characterization of the $25,000,000 drought relief fund as a "step dangerously near a dole," La Follette said:

"The failure of the federal government to assist the drought stricken farmers was due to the determined opposition of the president. In refusing to aid millions of our citizens suffering want and hunger due to accessions over which they had no control, the federal government violated precedents established as early as 1827."

ASKS $1,750 AS RESULT OF MOTORBOAT CRASH

Milwaukee—(P)—Suit to collect $1,750 from William Gettelman, Jr., University of Wisconsin freshman and son of a local banker, as the result of a motorboat collision, was in progress today before Civil Judge Edmund Gauswitz.

The plaintiff, Royal Hansen, president of the Milwaukee Furnace company, alleged that on Aug. 4, 1929, while participating in outboard motor races on Pewaukee lake, he suffered personal injuries in a collision with Gettelman's boat. In addition to personal and property damages, Hansen asked $500 because, he charges, Gettelman failed to rescue him.

FISHERMAN IS SAVED BY COAST GUARD CREW

Eagle Harbor, Mich.—(P)—Caught in high waves on Lake Superior while setting nets from a rowboat, John Kotila, 55, commercial fisherman, was rescued today in a semi-conscious condition by the Eagle Harbor coast guard. Kotila's body had drifted five miles out into the lake and was tossed helplessly when the coast guards reached him. It was the first distress call of the season received at the coast guard station.

U.S. Force Lands To Guard Americans In Nicaragua

Washington—(P)—Four Americans today were reported killed in and around Puerto Cabezas, Nicaragua, and three reported missing as a result of attacks by insurgents in the past 48 hours.

The state department today announced that orders had been dispatched to the commander of the gunboat Asheville to land forces to protect 300 American citizens at Puerto Cabezas, which is endangered by an advance of Nicaraguan insurgents.

The Asheville arrived at Puerto Cabezas last night. The American residents of that port, mostly employees of the Standard Fruit and Steamship company, and the Braham's Bluff Lumber company, today were reported concentrated on the water front or aboard the steamship Cefala.

Navy department reports said the insurgents threatening Puerto Cabezas are much stronger than at first believed.

SENATE PASSES BILL LEVYING SPECIAL TAXES

Assesses Owners Who Benefit by Public Works in 1st Class Cities

Madison—(P)—A bill to permit cities to make special assessments against property owners who benefit directly from public improvements was passed by the senate today and immediately messaged to the assembly. The vote was 27 to 2.

Although the bill pertains only to first class cities (Milwaukee only) opponents of the measure pointed out that other cities may be affected because future legislation will be modeled on the bill.

By a vote of 13 to 13 the senate refused to adopt an amendment introduced by Sen. Bernard Gettelman, Milwaukee, which would have submitted the entire question to a referendum in 1932. Another amendment, introduced by Sen. Oscar Morris, Milwaukee, was voted down. It would have eliminated the retroactive portion of the measure, involving several millions of dollars that were expended in Milwaukee improvements.

Sen. Gettelman offered a last minute amendment which exempts churches, schools and virtually all public or semi-public buildings from special assessments. This was adopted by a viva voce vote. On the bill's final passage, senators Conrad Shear, Kenosha, and Peter Smith, Eau Claire, voted no. The bill will support a law which was ruled unconstitutional after being in force for more than a half century.

Fund For Veterans

The senate also passed a bill to appropriate $5,000 annually to the Wisconsin department of Disabled American Veterans of Foreign Wars to carry out the functions of the state legion and service office. The vote was 21 to 7.

By a vote of 17 to 7 the upper house refused to indefinitely postpone a bill which orders the distribution of public utility taxes on a fifty-fifty basis between school districts and towns or villages in counties of 250,000 population or less. Under the present law such distribution is permitted only in counties of less than 100,000.

The legislature today adopted a resolution of condolence for the death of Clinton G. Price, Juneau-co district attorney, who was slain from ambush a year ago.

Price served two terms in the assembly in 1923 and 1925. Last year he was acquitted of a charge to violate the prohibition laws. He was slain a short time later. Lyall, former county sheriff of Juneau-co, was acquitted of murder charges in connection with the slaying.

Although a heavy calendar faced the assembly, the session was unimportant inasmuch as important bills were laid over.

TWO MEASURES SIGNED BY GOV. LA FOLLETTE

Madison—(P)—Gov. La Follette today signed two bills:

By Sen. Philip Nelson, Maple—Adding two members, the state commanders of the Disabled Veterans of the World War and the Veterans of Foreign Wars, to the soldiers' rehabilitation board. They would be appointed by the governor for six-year terms.

By Judiciary committee—Harmonizing the language of the 1929 statutes to abide with changes made through establishment of the bureau of personnel and purchasing.

TEACHER'S BODY TAKEN FROM WISCONSIN RIVER

Wausau—(P)—The body of Miss Beatrice Zimmerman, 48, a teacher at the Wausau high school for 25 years, was recovered today from the Wisconsin river after a search of more than four hours in which 1,000 boy scouts, students and friends helped.

Miss Zimmerman had received treatment for the last month for a nervous ailment. Her disappearance was noted about 6 o'clock a. m., when a note was found on a neighbor's porch asking that her brother, Alfred H. Zimmerman, head of an insurance agency here, be notified to come to her home. No mention of an intended suicide was made in the note.

All high school students who wished to aid in the search were excused from classes. Miss Zimmerman was in charge of the history department at the school and was very popular.

CONSIDER POSTOFFICE SITES IN TWO CITIES

Washington—(P)—Three bids of offering sites for a new postoffice in Sheboygan were opened in offices of the treasury department today. They were:

Adams Trester, agent, lots 1 to 5, block 150 on the southwest corner of New York-ave and N. Ninth-st., $85,000; Sheboygan Association of Commerce, consolidated bid including property in block 155 bounded by Center, Ninth, Pennsylvania and N. Water-sts., $174,254, and another combined bid in block 150, bounded by W. Water-st, N. Ninth and Center, $89,500.

William Reid Stoddard, agent, offered the northeast corner of Franklin and N. Madison-sts., Wausau, for $16,500 for a postoffice site in that city. The property is 132 by 165 feet. The city of Wausau offered to purchase from the government the present postoffice site for $3,500. The land would be used for a park.

Wets Trying To Override Veto Of Bill

Illinois Dries Confident They Can Sustain Governor's Action

Springfield, Ill.—(P)—Opponents of Illinois' prohibition enforcement laws today were girding their forces, they announced, for an attempt to override Gov. Louis L. Briggs' veto of the O'Grady-McDermott bill which called for their repeal.

Rep. Thomas O'Grady, co-author of the repeal measure, said in Chicago that an attempt to pass the bill over the governor's veto would be made this week, but leaders in the "dry" forces maintained that such an effort would prove futile. The "drys" said their strength in both the house and the senate was sufficient to block any success for their opponents.

Col. Ira Reeves, organizer of the Crusaders, an anti-prohibition organization, followed a conference with other "wet" leaders, declared that if passage of the bill over the governor's veto proves to be impossible, another effort would be made by putting a referendum clause in the repealer.

Governor Emmerson's message of veto left one door open for such an attempt, as he said that he would have signed the O'Grady-McDermott bill if it had contained a provision for submission of the question of repeal to a general referendum. The bill, calling for the wiping out of the state prohibition act and the state's search and seizure law, passed the house of the legislature by a vote of 91 to 56 and the senate, 26 to 24.

To override the veto 102 votes would be needed in the house and 34 in the senate.

BULLS FAIL TO KEEP CONTROL OF MARKET

New York—(P)—The stock market put its best foot forward at the opening today, only to lose its sense of direction in trading progressed.

A relatively favorable quarterly statement by American Telephone and Telegraph Co., gave that stock an upturn of $2.50 in the initial dealings, but that advance and others were lost as the day wore on.

A report that General Electric's quarterly dividend was not fully covered by earnings in the first three months of the year caused considerable selling of electrical equipment. Motion picture issues also weakened, as professional traders recalled that there still were unusually falls off with the arrival of warm weather.

PESETA DECLINES

New York—(P)—The Spanish peseta today continued the sharp decline that marked its action in the foreign exchange market yesterday as a result of the political situation in Spain.

After opening weak, the peseta declined steadily and in the forenoon had dropped almost half a cent to 9.22 cents per peseta. At the close yesterday the peseta's market value was 10.34 cents.

TWO FACING TRIAL IN ALLEGED ARSON PLOT

Marquette, Mich.—(P)—Charged with the first arson plot prosecuted in Marquette, Dennis Bernier, 34, was held today in the county jail, and Bridget Harris, elderly widow, was free on $1,000 bond, pending trial at the May term of circuit court.

The pair is accused of setting fire to an unoccupied building, owned by the woman, on the night of Nov. 26, 1930. Authorities charged Bernier fired the building at the request of the woman and on promise of $100.

BULLETIN

London—(P)—The London Evening News said tonight that King Alfonso was leaving Spain for Portugal tonight and was expected to proceed from there to England by sea.

BY CLARENCE DUBOSE

Copyright, 1931, by Associated Press

Madrid—(P)—King Alfonso, the last of the Bourbons, abdicated at 6 o'clock this evening (noon, Appleton time).

The monarch, who was born a king and had reigned in the ancient Spanish capital more than a quarter of a century, this afternoon bowed to the swelling demands for a republic that his subjects voiced last Sunday, and stepped out.

Niceto Alcala Zamora, Republican leader, who not so many weeks ago was in jail for his activities, is provisional president.

Although the king's abdication has been an unquestioned outcome of the political crisis for the past few days, it was not until the last moment that he stepped into power.

At 4:45 p. m. Alcala Zamora had found it necessary to send an ultimatum to the king's ministers saying that unless a republic were formally accepted within an hour, the republicans would not be responsible for the consequences.

Yields to Ultimatum

The hour went by and then just 15 minutes after the ultimatum had expired the abdication of the king became a reality. The announcement was made exactly at 6 o'clock after a final session with the cabinet in the royal palace.

A Republican government, with Alcala Zamora as president, took charge immediately.

With the proclamation of a republic at Barcelona this morning and similar proclamations at Saragossa, San Sebastian and other cities, it became a certainty that the king would have to leave Spain.

All afternoon rumors that the king had actually abdicated flew thick and fast, but it was not until 6 o'clock tonight that Alfonso's reign came to an end which for many years he had successfully avoided in the face of frequent crises.

The king signed his abdication at 6 o'clock sharp. As he left the cabinet room he embraced his ministers with considerable emotion. He said that he left the throne with his conscience tranquil, having always worked for the welfare of the country.

A report was current that a representative of the royal household drew large sums of money from a bank today, presumably in preparation for the departure of the royal family from Spain.

Simultaneously with the staccato events in Madrid another republic was being proclaimed at Barcelona where Francisco Macia, Catalan independent leader, marched from the city hall to the provincial palace, taking over in the name of himself as president of a Catalan republic.

Pictures and busts of the king and royal family were thrown out of a window where a screaming mob tore the portraits and trampled the busts into dust.

Deny Report of Flight

Although rumors were current throughout the early part of the day that all the members of the royal family except King Alfonso had left the palace, palace authorities definitely denied these this afternoon and

KILLS WIFE, STEPSON AND COMMITS SUICIDE

West Salem, Ohio—(P)—Suddenly going insane James McGregor, 65, poured gasoline on his wife and stepson and set them afire at his home near here early today, fatally stabbed a boarder, and then committed suicide. The woman and her son died a few hours later in a hospital at Lodi.

Officers said McGregor had become insanely jealous and accused his wife of infidelity. Before she became unconscious, Mrs. McGregor said she and her stepson were seated on aavenport in their home when her husband, suddenly poured gasoline on them from a kettle and then set them afire before they could escape.

Prohibition Arrests Show Large Increase, Woodcock Reports

AUTO SEIZURES ALSO AT HIGH POINT, HE SAYS

5,273 Dry Law Arrests, 719 Automobiles Confiscated in March

Washington (AP)—A new high peak in federal prohibition enforcement with more arrests and more automobiles seized than in any similar period since July, was announced today by Prohibition Director Woodcock for the month of March.

With his field forces strengthened by approximately 500 new agents, Woodcock said the last month was "the best month the bureau has had since I took office nearly a year ago."

There were 5,273 dry law arrests during March, the prohibition director said, as contrasted with 4,181 for February. At the same time, he said, the seizure of automobiles jumped 15 to total 719 for the month, and the granting of permanent injunctions increased 100 to 684.

"Notwithstanding this increased activity," he continued, "the courts more than kept up with us. There were 23,583 cases on the docket at the end of February and only 21,548 on April 1."

Further, we have established a definite trend in these figures, showing that the average of fines is steadily decreasing, while the average of jail sentences has been steadily increasing in the nine months since prohibition enforcement was transferred from the treasury to the justice department."

Meanwhile, Woodcock pushed plans for the assimilation into the federal dry force of the remainder of 500 new agents authorized by the last congress. On July 1 they will begin a two-week intensive training period in impromptu schools in the 12 prohibition districts.

The prohibition bureau's 24 inspectors will be called to Washington during June for a "refresher" course, with orders to have the approximately 300 recruits ready for service by July 15. In the meantime Woodcock plans an inspection trip through eight northwestern states, leaving the capital this week. Today he intended to discuss dry law matters with the New York prohibition administrator.

In figures made public by the prohibition bureau today it was shown that agents had seized 192,495 gallons of beer during March, together with 147,508 gallons of illicit liquor. During the same period 1,752 stills and distilleries fell into the federal hands, while 2,385 beer fermenters suffered a similar fate.

Since Woodcock took office last July, the figures showed 25,912 fines aggregating $3,632,089 have been assessed against prohibition violators, while 19,464 have received jail sentences totaling 11,730 years.

PROTEST DUMPING ON ROAD AT TRACY FARM

A protest against the dumping of tin cans, automobile bodies, kerosene stoves and other rubbish on the highway leading to and past the John Tracy farm, where the city dump is located, was received by Theodore Albrecht, highway commissioner, from officials of the town of Buchanan Tuesday.

Persons hauling rubbish to the Tracy farm, the letter said, carelessly strew the roadside with junk as far as the Speel school, District No. 5, and along the highway connecting with the city limits of Kimberly.

It was pointed out by Mayor John Goodland, Jr., that with the approach of the annual cleanup week, this disturbance will stop, and the annual cleanup week will stop. The annual cleanup week will open on May 4, and after September 1 rubbish will be collected once a month.

NURSE WILL SPEAK TO HIGH SCHOOL GIRLS

Miss Jane Cruikshank, superintendent of nurses, Theda Clark hospital, Neenah, will talk to senior girls in Appleton high school, who are interested in nursing as their vocation at 2:15 tomorrow afternoon at the high school. This is one of the first meetings of students and professional leaders as a part of the vocational guidance program organized several weeks ago by Adams Puffer, Boston vocational guidance expert, who was brought here by Appleton high school and the Appleton Chamber of Commerce.

Twenty members of home economics clubs in the county attended a district meeting at the village hall at Black Creek Monday. Miss Harriet Thompson, county home demonstration agent, had charge of the meeting, as well as the lesson in color and line dress. The meeting Monday was the first of eight district gatherings scheduled for the next two weeks by Miss Thompson. The other meetings this week are: Tuesday at Bear Creek; Wednesday at Stevensville; Thursday at Seymour, and Friday at Sugar Bush.

LISTS SIGNS OF OPPOSITION TO DRY STATUTES

Women's Reform Group Leader Praises Wickersham Board Members

Washington (AP)—Four findings of sentiment against prohibition—among the Wickersham report—were listed today by Mrs. Charles H. Sabin of New York before the second meeting of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform.

The law enforcement commission's separate reports Mrs. Sabin termed a document that "should be adopted as the handbook of the anti-prohibitionists."

She named as other indicators of opposition to the eighteenth amendment: "Increase in our own membership," "Change in the complexion of congress," and "Refusal of more and more of the state to spend money and effort for the enforcement of a law repugnant to their people."

As Mrs. Jesse W. Nicholson had called upon the National Woman's Democratic L. A. V. Enforcement league to support prohibition above their party, Mrs. Sabin demanded that "patriotism shall be placed above party."

Prohibition is the paramount political issue of the day," Mrs. Sabin asserted.

But the debate, she claimed, "is now upon the best method of ridding ourselves of its (prohibition's) admittedly glaring and ever more and more threatening evils."

Says Charges Substantiated

Every charge her organization brought against prohibition, Mrs. Sabin declared, was "fully substantiated" by the president's commission on law observance and enforcement.

"Though by some feat of Japanese sword swallowing, the commission managed in its summing up as a unit to eat its own words," Mrs. Sabin added, "nevertheless for the findings which it spread upon the record, and for the plain demand of 10 of its 11 members for repeal or revision we owe it a debt of gratitude."

She named five "hitherto arid states" in which congressional seats were won by advocates of repeal as Nebraska, Oregon, South Carolina, Tennessee and Washington.

Eight states having one-fourth of the national population, Mrs. Sabin said, have "officially notified the federal government that they will no longer cooperate in the enforcement of a law hateful to their citizens."

She added that as Republicans and Democrats of the next congress who are already out for repeal are practically even this "demonstrates that this issue is cutting squarely across both parties."

Asking prohibitionists to "wake from their dream and join with us in adding the country of this (prohibition) curse," she warned: "If they refuse, they, and they alone, must render an accounting to the generations to come."

General Weather

Continued fair weather has prevailed over the entire country during the last 24 hours except for light showers in the lower Mississippi Valley and the northern Rocky Mountains. High pressure over the lower lakes has brought slightly cooler to the lake region and upper Mississippi Valley, but this is followed by a trough of low pressure extending along the Rocky Mountains which is bringing rain temperatures to the Western states. Fair weather is expected in this section tonight and Wednesday, followed by showers by Wednesday night.

FOURTH WARD THREATENED BY SERIOUS FIRE

Blame "Firebug" in Blaze Which Showered District With Sparks

Incendiarism is suspected by Chief George P. McGillion in a blaze which threatened to spread through the Fourth ward residential district about 12:30 this morning. The fire started in a shed in the rear of 1302 S. Jefferson-st. It was discovered by passersby when the building was completely ablaze, and by the time the fire department could be summoned two outhouses were in flames and the fire had reached the duplex dwelling house occupied by John Kilday and Nick Weber.

Flames shooting into the air sent off showers of sparks which dropped on the roofs of scores of nearby homes. The fact that most of these homes were fitted with fireproof roofings probably saved the Fourth ward from a serious fire which might have swept the entire district. The sparks, carried more than a block by the wind, did set fire to an old church building at the corner of Fremont and Jefferson-sts., but the firemen were quickly informed of the fact and put out the first. The fire in the duplex apartment house also was put out before it reached serious proportions.

Both the duplex residence and the old church building are owned by Anton Stadler. The loss caused by the destruction of the shed and two outhouses was estimated by Chief McGillion at several hundred dollars. Three lines of work were laid and the firemen worked for more than an hour before they were satisfied there was no longer any danger of flames spreading to other residences.

The chief said he thought the blaze was of incendiary origin because of the manner in which the flames attacked the shed and the rapidly with which they engulfed the entire building.

SWEETEN ACID STOMACH THIS PLEASANT WAY

When people experience distress two hours after eating—suffer from heartburn, gas, indigestion—nine times out of ten it's excess acid that's causing their trouble.

The best way—the quickest way to correct this is with an alkali. And Phillips Milk of Magnesia is an alkali, in the harmless, most pleasant and palatable form. It's the form physicians prescribe; which hospitals use; which millions have cured themselves of in over 60 years of steadily increasing use.

A spoonful of Phillips Milk of Magnesia in a glass of water neutralizes many times its volume in excess acid; and does it at once. In five minutes, the symptoms of excess acid disappear. To know this perfect way is to be through with crude methods forever.

Be sure to get genuine Phillips Milk of Magnesia. A less perfect product may not act the same. All drug stores have the genuine 25c and 50c bottles. Full directions for its many uses are always in the package.

ARMY ORDERED TO REMOVE BUILDING

Razing of Structure Damaged by Fire Asked by Board

The Salvation Army will be instructed to remove the building on W. College-ave which was damaged by fire several months ago, it was decided at a meeting of the board of building inspection at city hall Monday morning. The building inspector was authorized to order the building and all building materials removed from the premises within 30 days.

Charles Hopfensperger was granted permission to build an outside inclosed stairway on the building at the corner of Wisconsin-ave and N. Superior-st.

The request of Joseph Gamsky of the Badger Panatorium to construct an open wood stairway and platform on his clearing establishment at 210 N. Appleton-st was denied. It was found that regulation fire escapes and platforms could be installed instead.

CHIEF ISSUES WARNING ABOUT GRASS FIRES

Points Out That Greatest Caution Should Be Exercised by Citizens

Appleton citizens were warned today by Fire Chief George P. McGillion to practice extreme caution in starting grass and rubbish fires. Serious fires have been experienced in the last few days in many cities throughout the country because of carelessness, he pointed out.

The chief said that residents of the city must be aware of the fires throughout the state and nation which have caused hundreds of thousands of dollars of damage. He said that many of these fires had been traced directly to an "innocent" grass fire which through carelessness of the person who started it, resulted in more serious conflagrations.

"If you must burn rubbish or dead grass on vacant lots, use every precaution to see that the blaze does not spread," the chief said. "Remain close to the fire you start and watch it carefully to see that it doesn't spread to nearby buildings. When you leave, make absolutely certain that the fire is out. Often someone will go away, thinking the fire has been put out, only to discover later that the wind had fanned the lingering sparks and started another fire."

"This city has been extremely fortunate the last few days in escaping serious fires. Over the weekend the department was called out eight times to battle grass fires. Monday the firemen were summoned six times, in five cases to grass and rubbish fires which threatened nearby buildings."

The firemen were called out yesterday at 6:30 in the evening to Locust and Fourth-sts to a grass fire; at 7 o'clock to a chimney fire at the residence of Cecil Tibbets, 1512 Melvin-st; at 7:30 to S. Lavest, to a grass fire; and at midnight to 524 N. Durkee-st to a rubbish fire. No damage resulted from any of these blazes.

Building Permits

One building permit was issued Monday by John N. Wieland, building inspector. It was granted to Niels C. Miller, residence and two-car garage at 1504 S. Mason-st, cost $4500.

JUSTICE FOWLER SPENT $3,963 IN CAMPAIGN

Madison (AP)—Justice Chester A. Fowler spent $3,963.44 in his campaign for reelection while his opponent, Attorney General John Reynolds, spent $2,811.25, according to statements on file with the secretary of state today. Neither sums included money spent by volunteer campaign committees.

CABIN CRUISER FIRST BOAT TO CROSS LAKE

The "Jim Pop," cabin cruiser recently acquired by Dr. A. L. Koch of this city, is probably the first boat to cross Lake Winnebago and ship through the government locks at Menasha this season.

The initial trip on the lake was made during the heavy wind storm Sunday. Those on board were Dr. Koch, William Gust, Edward Foster and Charles Matke. Two and one half hours were required to cross the lake, according to Dr. Koch.

SHOUSE FORECASTS VICTORY FOR PARTY

Calls G. O. P. Regime "Most Inept" at Capital in Two Decades

Los Angeles (AP)—A prediction that the Democratic party would win the next presidential election was made by Chairman Jett Shouse of the Democratic national executive committee, at a Jefferson day dinner here last night.

"For more than two years," Shouse said, "the government of the United States has simply drifted. An harassed and indignant nation, is preparing, if I read the auguries correctly, to rid itself of the most inept, inadequate and incompetent administration that has brought to Washington in at least two decades."

"We have never had action where postponement was possible. We have had avoidance of responsibility when leadership was poignantly required."

A. Scott Bullitt, Democratic national committeeman from the state of Washington told the gathering that he was "for Franklin D. Roosevelt for president." He said he believed that when the time comes, "Roosevelt will be nominated and by none other than Alfred E. Smith."

"Power," he said, "will be the dominant issue at the next election. A year from now it will be a greater issue than prohibition."

Governor Roosevelt sent from New York a message of "good luck and best wishes to all."

"The party," he stated, "has a glorious opportunity to offer leadership along progressive lines to meet the tremendous economical and social problems which have become so important during the past decade and which have been so neglected or mis-handled by those now conducting our national government."

Rescue Worker Tells Of Horrors In Tunnel Trap Where 10 Men Perished

Chicago (AP)—A saga of heroism was written by Chicago firemen and other rescue workers who braved the blistering heat and death laden air of the city sanitary bore where ten men perished.

"It was just like ten years of hell," said Lieut. Leo McCurry from a cot in St. Anthony hospital, rescued today after 16 hours in the underground inferno.

"I was ordered by Division Marshal Patrick Pierce to go into the tunnel as soon as I arrived on the scene of the disaster. I asked for a gas mask but Lieut. Pierce and the others, hardly realizing the seriousness of the smoke, told me it was not necessary. As soon as I entered the tunnel, I saw men running feverishly about, choking and gasping for air."

"I then decided I needed a gas mask to carry on the rescue work but it was too late. Another fireman and I grabbed hold of three laborers and we dashed into the bulkhead, which is a large boiler."

"Unable to leave, we were forced to remain in the bulkhead for 26 hours."

As it became more and more suffocating, the five of us ran far to the rear of the bulkhead. There, except for an occasional whiff of smoke, we were fairly comfortable and had enough air. Just before 9 a. m., however, the air suddenly was shut off and we had to dash for our lives. The dash was a 30-foot stretch right through smoke that almost suffocated us. But we made it."

Marshall Pierce, his curly front gray hair rumpled, his face streaked and his clothes covered with mud, was another who spent the night in the smoke-filled tunnel.

"When we went down yesterday, we found the place filled with smoke. We ran into some of the workmen and blundered along the tunnel until we reached the east end."

"We found the safety chamber and immediately closed the door. Then we noticed that fresh air was being pumped into the chamber and we thought we were safe."

"We could do nothing; we just sat and waited."

"Sometimes we could hear the men who came down stumbling around in the tunnel. We could not open the door. We thought probably the men had smoke masks on and we knew we would suffocate if we got out."

"It seemed a long time until we heard the blower of the smoke ejector, then we noticed the air seemed to be getting clearer. Finally, I said 'let's take a chance boys. We could see to the shaft. We dashed to the signal ropes. And here we are.'"

Six times, Pete Rikluske, a workman, went down into the lethal tunnel and each time he staggered up with a body. The seventh time he was overcome but was rescued.

Fireman Irving Strum was lowered into the tunnel every time the rescue cage went down. On the verge of collapse, he finally was ordered from the scene by his superiors.

The traditional code of the fire department—"follow your chief" and "never give up a comrade for lost"—was emphasized as they made daring rushes into the living tomb of their comrades and workers trapped in the tunnel.

Capt. James Cotter of Squad 8 told a graphic story of the scene at the bottom.

"The heat was overpowering," he said, "and the air thick with heavy, white smoke from the smoldering walls. You waded through four feet of water, dripping with sweat. Your feet stuck in the clinging mud and you became so weak that you could hardly pick up the bodies you stumbled over."

QUIET PROGRAM IS SCHEDULED FOR CHURCHES

Revival Meetings at First Baptist Church Attracting Large Crowds

A reasonably quiet program is scheduled for the churches this week, although there will be a number of circle Brotherhood and Ladies Aid meetings.

Large crowds are attending the revival meetings at the First Baptist church, being conducted by the Rev. Anton Cedarholm of Los Angeles, Calif. On Sunday members of the Neenah Baptist church joined the local congregation at the morning service when the evangelist talked on God's Most Important Warning to the Church. In the evening his subject was Why I Believe that Jesus Christ is the Son of God. Next Sunday a group of Baptists from Norway, Mich., where Mr. Cedarholm is well known, will come to Appleton for the morning service. There will be services at 7:45 every evening in the week until April 26.

Three foreign students, Memduh Bey Mazloum of Turkey, Che Ming Liu of China, and G. Jones Fleming of the Virgin Islands, talked at the Congregational church Sunday. Deaconesses met Tuesday afternoon, and the C. Y. W. will entertain members of the I. B. club of the Methodist church and Chi Tau of the Presbyterian church Tuesday evening.

The Rev. I. Wegner of De Pere will conduct the services at First English Lutheran church next Sunday. The Rev. F. C. Reuter, who is convalescing from a siege of influenza, expects to return to the pulpit on May 1. The Rev. E. Koch of Oshkosh preached Sunday morning, and a quarterly meeting of the congregation was held in the afternoon. The Ladies Aid will serve dinner and supper during the spring sale on Wednesday.

Post-Easter Subject
Dr. J. A. Holmes preached on a post-Easter subject Sunday, using the text, "Abide with Me for it is Eventide and the Day is far Spent."

He spoke of the incidents surrounding the post-Easter appearance of Christ, of the abiding presence of Jesus in the world today, and of His presence in death. The Women's Foreign Missionary society met Tuesday afternoon, the Missionary tea will be served at 6 o'clock, and the official board will meet at 7 o'clock. A second annual old quilt display will be held Tuesday, April 21, the Methodist Brotherhood supper and program will be held Friday, April 24, the mother and daughter banquet on Friday, May 1, a district meeting of the Women's Foreign Missionary society on Thursday, May 7, and the May tea of the Social Union on Wednesday, May 27. The Daily Vacation Bible school will open on Tuesday, June 9.

A meeting of the congregation will be held at Emanuel Evangelical church Wednesday evening. The Rev. J. F. Nienstedt preached on Follow Me Sunday morning.

The Life That Satisfies was the subject of the sermon by the Rev. R. A. Garrison at Memorial Presbyterian church Sunday morning. Emphasizing that the life of service is the one that brings the most satisfaction, Mr. Garrison talked of the life of Dr. Wilfred Grenfell, medical missionary who has been doing missionary work in Labrador for 40 years.

New Officers Seated
New officers of the Women's Union of St. John Evangelical church were installed at the morning service at St. John church Sunday. The Rev. W. R. Wetzeler preached on Receive the Witness of God, and a congregational meeting was held in the afternoon. The Rev. Paul Kasper of Brillion addressed the monthly meeting of the Brotherhood Monday evening.

A meeting of Mount Olive Lutheran congregation will be held at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon. The Rev. R. E. Ziesemer preached on Thomas' Unbelief Sunday morning.

Two German plays will be presented at the Zion Parish school Tuesday evening by Lawrence College players. The regular business meeting of the Zion Lutheran Missionary society will be held at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, and the Ladies Aid will meet Thursday afternoon. The Rev. Theodore Marth preached on I Will Open Your Graves Sunday morning.

Members of the Reformed Christian Endeavor attended a concert at Emanuel Reformed church at Kaukauna Sunday evening. The Ladies Aid will meet Thursday afternoon.

The Rev. E. Franz preached on The Peace that Surpasses all Understanding Sunday morning.

The Victorious Faith was the subject of the sermon by the Rev. D. E. Bosserman at Trinity English Lutheran church Sunday morning. The Missionary society met Monday evening, the Brotherhood Wednesday evening.

The Rev. L. A. V. De Cleene, O. France, Wis. De Pere, was the principal speaker at the breakfast meeting held by the Holy Name and Sac-

BOYS MAKING GOOD IN SPECIAL CLASS

Failures in English Show Improvement in Experimental Move

Twenty-seven boys in Wilson junior high school who were classed as English failures last semester are proving a theory of Dr. M. H. Small by making good in a special class which he is conducting for them. That a pupil failure is a teacher failure is one of Dr. Small's educational theories. He has been working with these boys who were taken from five different English classes. Each of these boys was either a failure or very low in English. The class has progressed until many of the boys have reached A and B standings.

"They are not steady workers," Dr. Small said, "but they all have ability and the whole trouble with them is that they never liked English."

The class members plot their own progress and attendance curves twice a week in order to realize their personal achievement. Dr. Small teaches them grammar by outline method, developing, he explains, a tool chest of grammatical structures. The students are given mimeographed material to guide their thinking and aid them in finding grammatical terms in sentence form. Dr. Small claims that the students are no longer inattentive in class. They are industrious, interested in their study progress and have developed a better attitude toward study.

SHIOCTON HIGH SCHOOL TO HOLD VISITING DAY

Rural school graduates of the Shiocton district will attend Shiocton high school at a visiting day on Wednesday, according to Monroe Manley, principal. The visitors will be permitted to attend various classes during the morning. At noon a luncheon will be served by the domestic science department. In the afternoon there will be a program. Rural school teachers in that vicinity have been advised by Mr. Manley that graduates may be excused from classes that day without penalty.

SOPHOMORE WINS HEISS ORATORICAL CONTEST AT SCHOOL

Simon Sigman Awarded First Place in Annual Event Last Night

Simon Sigman, sophomore, won first place in the tenth annual William Heiss Oratorical contest last night in the high school auditorium. He will represent Appleton high school at Green Bay Thursday in the Fox River Valley contest.

"Banish Hate from Education," a speech by Anatole France, was the oration he gave. Vernon Beckman took third place with the subject, "Automotons or Man." Charles Widsten presented "The Prisoner at the Bar," while Harold Hauert's subject was "Misguided Youth."

The judges were the Rev. Lyle Utts, Elmer Root, a member of the class of 1916, and Frank Wheeler, George Dame, class of 1916, presided.

This contest is sponsored every year by the class of 1916 in memory of a classmate, William Heiss, who was one of the first Appleton soldiers killed in action on the battlefields of France. The winner receives a silver loving cup and goes to the valley meet.

When Mr. Sigman appears at East Green Bay high school Thursday night with students from eight valley schools, he will compete against his cousin, Charles Kipen, Manitowoc high school. These schools include East and West Green Bay, Manitowoc, Oconto, Sheboygan, Marinette, Fond du Lac, Oshkosh and Appleton.

Special music was presented by Eloise Smeltzer, Lucille Wichmann, Mary Brooks and Suzanne Jennings. Miss Mary Carrier, forensics coach, had charge of the contest up to the finals. She managed the try-outs, from which were chosen the five students participating in the finals. These were selected by faculty judges.

so they can visit the Shiocton school. The visiting day is held in an effort to give students an opportunity to know something about high schools, which many of them will attend next year.

Help Stimulate Construction Work, Building Trades Are Urged

NEWSPAPER TO SUPPORT MOVE FOR PUBLICITY

More Houses Needed in City, Building Committee Points Out

A plea to men in the building trades to support a publicity movement to stimulate construction work this spring was made to about 100 contractors and workers at the city hall Monday afternoon by H. A. Schlitz, chairman of the committee on public and private building, a section of Appleton committee on employment.

To provide the city with the additional houses it needs, to give work to the unemployed, and to promote building during a period when the full value of all dollar is assured, and the contractors were urged to support the committee's plan to stimulate building this spring.

The Appleton Post-Crescent, Mr. Schlitz announced has agreed to throw open its columns for the use of building news which will bring about greater activity in the construction field. A large number of news stories will be written to discuss the advantages of building and remodeling at the present time, tell where plans and advice for building and remodeling can be obtained, the value of house plans, information on interior finish, comparative costs with other years, comparison of materials, and plans for refinishing old houses.

Tell Complete Story
They will tell the story of masonry, information about lighting systems, the remodeling of plumbing, changes in heating systems, tips on the location of houses, landscaping, grades, interior and exterior repainting, refinishing woodwork, types of roofs, slate, and shingle, fire insurance rates, fireplaces, kitchen remodeling, tiling, ventilating and all the other problems connected with the construction of new buildings.

It was pointed out at the meeting that on March 5 there were only 32 empty houses in Appleton. A national survey shows that the average number of vacant houses in a city is 3 per cent, which would mean 150 vacant houses for Appleton, indicating that Appleton is far from having a surplus of houses.

That people want modern, reasonably priced homes, and that many families have moved from Appleton in the past because homes of this type were not available was pointed out. No person who builds a house will have a "white elephant" on his hands, it was promised as there is a constant demand for new houses.

However, the value of building at this time must be emphasized to the public. The men who accomplished the men were told, through the presentation of a practical building program backed by facts. News reporters will interview contractors, obtain from them facts about the building trade, and present them to the public. The contractors were urged to provide accurate information, so the news stories would convey a true picture of building conditions.

Street Day
If there was ever a time when the public deserves every dollar of value for every dollar spent, it is now," Mr. Schlitz declared.

"Through there is no reduction in wage scale, and certainly this committee is not seeking that, it is true that with two unemployed men on the sidelines for every one on the job, every employer producing the best he can offer, through the plan of greater efficiency, and lowers the cost of construction work."

Gustave Keller, Sr., general chairman of the employment relief committee, declared that many prospective builders with jobs and bank accounts are simply waiting, wondering what the future will bring.

"These people, he said, can be inspired to build if the city can help them to get the work instead of waiting for it. He pleaded with the group to get behind the campaign to stimulate trade, emphasized the necessity of having boosters instead of knockers, and said that the committee can do nothing more than lead, that the workers must cooperate."

The suggestions and plans he assured that the committee has no ulterior motive in promoting the campaign, that it is not seeking to cut the purchasing power of the working man, but that it is wholeheartedly attempting to improve conditions in Appleton, as the committee of the governor and the president are trying to do in the entire state and nation.

Another angle of the committee's plan, it was explained, is to improve the financial situation of the mason, carpenter, painter and others in the building business. The annual average wage of the mason, it was said, is $25 a week.

Urges Financing Plan

In the informal discussion which followed the talks by Mr. Schlitz, Mr. Keller and Stephen Balliet, one of the working men, the committee advised a financing plan and another asked why more industries could not be brought to Appleton. Mr. Schlitz answered that the Post-Crescent news stories will explain financing, that the best way of getting new industries for Appleton is to create them inside the city.

John P. Gates, realtor, said that last year 200 families left town because they could not find suitable houses.

ORGANIZE NEW SCOUT TROOP AT HILBERT

Organization of the new Hilbert boy scout troop will be completed at a meeting of the troop committee at 8:30 Thursday evening, according to M. G. Clark, valley scout executive. Twenty boys have made application for membership.

Dance Wed. Nite, Stephens

Appear in German Play

Gilbert Hill, Menasha, and Annette Heller, Appleton, will play the leading roles in "Frühling im Winter," a one-act play to be presented by the German department of Lawrence college at the Zion parish school at the corner of E. Winnebago and N. Oneida-st. at 8 o'clock this evening. Mr. Hill, an experienced actor, has appeared in a number of Winnebago Players productions.

GERMAN STUDENTS IN PLAYS TONIGHT

Two One-act Productions to Be Offered Tonight at Zion School

Two one-act plays, "Frühling im Winter," and "Die kleinen Verwandten" will be presented at the Zion parish school auditorium this evening by the German department of Lawrence college to raise money for language scholarships for needy students. Gilbert Hill, Menasha, an actor of the legitimate stage and for several years one of the leading members of Winnebago Players, will play opposite Miss Annette Heller, Appleton, in the leading role in "Frühling im Winter."

The story of "Frühling im Winter" is about a wealthy German count who, tired with the monotony of life, calls on a former sweetheart for the last time before killing himself. He tells her of his plans and she, in an effort to save him, sends him to deliver some Christmas parcels to poor families. Their want makes him realize his luck and his spirits return while the couple drinks tea and talks of old times.

When the count leaves his sweetheart tells him she has drugged the tea to kill him painlessly, and the resulting action is a big surprise and wholly unexpected.

The second play, "Die kleinen Verwandten," depicts the anxious preparations of a loving mother when her daughter's suitor is expected to propose. The play shows the snobishness and hypocrisy of German officialdom. When the mother's sister, who has married below her rank, appears and begins to denounce the actions of the family, the proud mother is driven almost frantic. Then Max Schmidt, the suitor, arrives and the real fun starts.

UNCERTAIN WEATHER ON WEDNESDAY MENU

Uncertain weather will prevail in Appleton and vicinity during the next 24 hours, according to the weather man.

Skies will be clear tonight and the mercury is due for a rise. On Wednesday skies will be cloudy and April showers probably will prevail, he says. Similar predictions have been circulated throughout the midwest for the next 24 hours.

Winds are shifting in the east and southeast, a good indication that wet weather is on the way. At 6 o'clock Tuesday morning the mercury registered 34 degrees above zero, while at noon it registered 63 degrees above.

FLYING RESERVATIONS AT TELEGRAPH OFFICES

The Boeing system, including Boeing Air Transport, Inc., Pacific Air Transport and Varney Air Lines, divisions of the United Aircraft and Transport company, comprising one of the largest air transport and airplane manufacturing systems in the United States, Monday signed a contract with the Western Union and Postal Telegraph companies which will make available to the public through all offices, passenger reservation service for all going lines.

Boeing Air Transport operates planes between Chicago, Omaha, Salt Lake City and San Francisco; Pacific Air Transport between Seattle, San Francisco, Los Angeles and San Diego, and Varney Air Lines between Salt Lake City, Portland, Seattle and Spokane.

CLERGYMEN DISCUSS EVANGELICAL WORK

The Rev. Anton Cedarholm, for many years with R. A. Torrey, veteran evangelist, led a general discussion on evangelical work at a meeting of Fox River Valley Ministerial association Monday afternoon at the Y. M. C. A. The association extended thanks to the various groups and persons who helped make the holy week services at the Appleton theatre and shops a success.

The Rev. D. E. Bosserman of Trinity English Lutheran church will be speaker at the next meeting, May 18. He will talk about "Theism and the Modern Mind."

Joyce Strutz, Elmer Lemke, and Mr. and Mrs. John Gehrmann motored to Milwaukee to spend the weekend with friends and relatives.

FIND FOUR MORE WELLS GIVE UNSAFE WATER TO PUPILS

Four more rural school wells have been located unsafe by the state health laboratory at Oshkosh, according to a report received today by Miss Marie Klein, county nurse. This makes a total of 15 wells supplying rural school students with drinking water which have been reported unsafe. The first report from the state found 11 unsafe wells out of 41, while the second report found four unsafe wells out of 23. This is a total of 15 out of 70. Samples of water from the balance of the county's 140 schools are being taken this week and sent to the state laboratory for a test.

Schools at which wells were found to be unsafe are being advised by Miss Klein to boil the drinking water for 15 minutes before it is used.

BOARD APPROVES HIGHWAY CHANGE

Plans to Recommend Re-routing of Highway 55 from Freedom to Seymour

The county highway committee, following an inspection over County Trunk Y from Freedom to Seymour yesterday afternoon, decided to recommend to the county board at its meeting next week that State Trunk Highway 55 be rerouted over Route Y. This proposed change, suggested by the state highway commission, must be approved by the county board before it can take place. The rerouting of this highway, according to Frank Appleton, highway commissioner, will shorten the distance between Freedom and Seymour about a half mile and will also eliminate five dangerous curves.

Before taking the inspection trip the highway committee met at the courthouse and transacted routine business matters.

LIEUT. JOHN S. MILLS VISITING WITH PARENTS

Lieut. John Stewart Mills, son of Dr. and Mrs. N. P. Mills, 127 E. Lawrence-st., flew up from Chanute Field, Rantoul, Ill., late Monday afternoon, to spend a few days visiting in Appleton. Lieut. Mills has just completed a six month course in aircraft armament at Chanute Field and will leave in a week for San Diego, Calif., for further duty.

Mills, a graduate of Appleton high school, attended Lawrence college for about two years and went to West Point military academy where he starred in basketball. After graduation from the Point he took an aviation course and since has been assigned to duty in the air service.

EMPLOY HOME LABOR ON NEW POSTOFFICE

The employment of home labor on the postoffice building was discussed by James Thompson, superintendent of construction, Mayor John Goodland, Jr., and Kenneth Corbett, chamber of commerce secretary, at city hall Monday.

Mr. Thompson stated that the rumors that out-of-town labor is being employed on the postoffice job is entirely without foundation. He said that all laborers are from Appleton, with the exception of a few members of the company crew. He admitted that in one or two instances he had hired men who claimed they were from Appleton, but stated that these workers were fired as soon as it was learned that they were not residents of this city.

THEATRE ORGANIST TO BROADCAST FROM WBHY

Marshall Tooley, Fox theatre organist, will present daily programs on the Wurtlitzer organ over station WBHY, St. Norbert's college, West DePere, according to announcement made Tuesday. The broadcast will start the latter part of this week. They will be conducted at 12:30 in the afternoon.

BIRTHS

A daughter was born Monday to Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Hiebel, 1210 N. Appleton-st., at St. Elizabeth hospital.

A daughter, Rosemary, was born March 19 to Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Cimbola, Milwaukee. Mrs. Cimbola was formerly Miss Helen O'Hanlon, Appleton.

KING ALFONSO IS FORCED TO LEAVE THRONE

Niceto Alcalá Zamora Assumes Office as President of Spain.

stated that the queen had had lunch on as usual there.

In Barcelona and other towns where a republic was proclaimed, the proclamation was greeted with wild cheering from the crowds of republicans.

Republican leaders had established a permanent revolutionary junta at the residence of Alcalá Zamora in Madrid. Among the members was Largo Caballero, president of the general union of workers. The Junta leaders declared that they would work day and night "until the republic exists or we are all again in jail."

"A republic is already virtually proclaimed and a republic will soon actually exist," Caballero said. "It should have been established last night and it will be established soon by an uprising of the workers throughout Spain if that should be necessary."

May Go To France
It was reported that the royal family might go by automobile to France or Portugal.

Meanwhile a group of generals met in Madrid to consider whether to fly in the face of the Republican war and attempt a military dictatorship.

It is presumed, however, that the king was told this morning by the Aznar cabinet, which resigned, that no course other than the transfer of Spain into a republic was open. The central labor headquarters in Madrid, representing the organized workers of Spain this afternoon was ready to proclaim a nation-wide general strike unless a republic should come very quickly.

The streets of Madrid were quiet and there were no demonstrations or disorders.

The proclamation of a republic at Barcelona was accomplished without police resistance or fighting. Great crowds gathered and there were scenes of intense jubilation. Some of the demonstrators were injured in the crush and a few fist fights developed.

General strikes already have begun at Huelva, Victoria, Saragossa and other places. They will continue, it was declared until a Spanish republic exists.

In Oviedo the purple, yellow and red flag of the Spanish republic was unfurled in city council meeting, probably its first public display since the republic of 1873. A mob ranged the streets singing the Marseillaise with no interference by police. Nine were wounded in disturbances at Valencia, and three when police fired into crowds at Bilbao.

During the night the two months old cabinet of Premier Admiral Juan de Aznar decided to resign. Bautista Aznar decided to resign and recommended the minister of public works, Don Juan de la Cierva, minister of public works, and father of the inventor of the autogyro, to form a new conservative monarchist government.

Once King's Backer
Don Niceto Alcalá Zamora once was a staunch monarchist and a firm supporter of King Alfonso.

He turned against the king near the beginning of the dictatorship of General Primo de Rivera in 1923, to avenge what he deemed a personal political insult by General Rivera. Arrested for his connection with the revolt of last December, he was only recently tried by a court-martial. From his cell, during the time he was under arrest, he continued for a time to conduct his campaign for a Spanish republic.

The court-martial sentenced him to six months imprisonment on March 23 and on March 25 he was given his freedom on the condition that he refrain from anti-government politics. On April 5 he predicted the establishment of a republic if the monarchists were defeated in Sunday elections.

Before General de Rivera became dictator in 1923 Alcalá Zamora had been a deputy in parliament, secretary of the civil government in Madrid, under-secretary of finance and postmaster-general. He had served in three cabinets.

When General de Rivera charged that the old line politicians of Spain were factors in political corruption and useless appendages to public life, Alcalá Zamora demanded satisfaction from King Alfonso, and when the king failed to give it he declared himself a republican.

Defied His Captors
He is a brilliant orator. When arrested on Dec. 14 for participation in the December revolt he defiantly told his captors, "Yes, I am one of the leaders of the revolt. I was to have been the first president of the Spanish republic."

He will be 64 years old on July 6. He was born in the village of Priego, province of Cordova, and gained his prestige in the legal profession.

Francisco Macia, a former deputy, has long been the leader of the separatist movement, which would proclaim the province of Catalonia a republic and divide it from Spain. He was arrested by French police in 1925 as the leader of a plot to overthrow the dictatorship of General Primo de Rivera and end the monarchy.

Tried in Paris, he was found guilty and sentenced to a short term which he had already served. He was expelled from the country and went to Belgium with his family. Later he was deported from Argentina and arrested for entering Spain illegally. He has spent recent years in Brussels, directing the separatist forces from afar.

His expulsion lifted, Macia returned to Barcelona in October, 1930, and was received by acclaiming crowds, urging a complete pardon for him. He has been an active leader in the events leading up to the Chamber Speaker

Harry B. Hall, Milwaukee, assistant vice president of the American Appraisal Co., will address the annual meeting of the chamber of commerce at Conway hotel at 6:30 Thursday evening on "The Business Outlook." Annual reports of the chamber will be submitted.

ANNUAL REPORTS TO BE READ AT DINNER

Chamber Members to Dine at Conway Hotel Thursday Evening

Results of the election of new officers of the chamber of commerce will be submitted in one of the annual reports at the annual dinner meeting of the chamber at Conway hotel at 6:30 Thursday evening. The report is to be given by William Schubert, chairman of the nominating committee. Harvey Schlitz will give the annual report of the president, and William Strassburger, will submit the financial report.

The principal speaker will be Harry B. Hall, Milwaukee, assistant vice president of the American Appraisal Co. The topic of his address will be "The Business Outlook." In his address he will present his version of the economic depression, pointing out the reasons for its occurrence, and possible methods of remedying the situation.

A program of entertainment is being arranged. Music will be furnished under the direction of Dr. E. L. Baker of Lawrence Conservatory of Music.

Weekly rehearsals of the valley council boy scout drum and bugle corps will be resumed at 7:30 Wednesday evening in the old Alexander gymnasium on Lawrence college campus, according to Cloyd Schroeder, director. The early part of the practice period will be devoted to a study of music, after which drum and bugle rehearsal will get underway.

DOZEN HURT IN CRASH

Boston (AP)—At least 12 persons were injured, one seriously, and as many more shaken up today as two surface cars collided in the Park-st. subway station. All available public ambulances were summoned to the scene and the station, which is directly under Boston common, was closed temporarily.

PROBE DEATH IN MEXICO

Mexico City (AP)—Authorities of Puerto Mexico, on the lower coast of Vera Cruz, are investigating the death of an American, E. N. Burrows, American manager of "El Plan" oil fields near here.

Herman Goldbeck, who underwent an operation at St. Elizabeth hospital Friday, is recovering.

DYNASTY BEGAN IN 1700

The Bourbon dynasty, dating from the reign of Philip V in 1700, was restored to the Spanish throne in 1875 with the accession of Alfonso XII. In the intervening period the country had grown restless under a succession of monarchies and republics.

His first act was a royal decree proclaiming Canovas del Castillo prime minister and setting up a strong administration which adopted a Catholic and conservative policy. After 15 months of warfare against the Carlist forces, supporters of the former regime, opposition to the government was quelled and a short period of peace obtained.

However, the Cuban insurrection broke out anew and the government was forced to dispatch an expedition abroad, eventually inflicting peace by the sword. Internal troubles, meanwhile, beset the ruler and they resulted in the Constitution of 1876, compromise between the Constitution of 1845 and that of the Revolution in 1869.

Alphonso XII died in 1885, apparently leaving no male issue, and Queen Cristina became the acting monarch. Six months later, his posthumous son Alphonso XIII was born and a regency was established. Senor Sagasta became premier.

King Alphonso XIII assumed the throne in 1902 at 16 years of age. He married Princess Victoria Eugenie in 1902 and his wedding day was marked by an attempt on his life. Early in his reign he showed a disposition to think for himself and to be a king in fact as well as in name.

Throughout the years of his tenure King Alfonso was harassed by attempted assassinations and movements against the crown. His appointment General Primo de Rivera prime minister in 1923 with the powers of a dictator but even this did not stem the rising tide of Republicanism. Only recently he restored constitutional privileges and provided for a parliamentary election program.

DRIVER NOT TO BLAME IN FATAL AUTO ACCIDENT

Coroner's Inquest Frees Appleton Man of Fault in Woman's Death

A coroner's jury at Chilton late Monday afternoon absolved Raymond Goss, 165 W. Foster-ave., Appleton, of blame in connection with the fatal injury of Mrs. Theresa Gibbs, 35, on Highway 114 about 11:15 Sunday night. Mrs. Gibbs was struck by a car driven by Goss as she walked along the pavement toward Menasha. She died about 11:15 Monday morning of a fractured skull.

The inquest was called by Sheriff Gerhard Jensen and Dr. J. J. Minahan, coroner of Calumet-co., after they had investigated the accident. Goss, who was called as a witness in the inquest at the Calumet-co. courthouse, testified that he was blinded by approaching lights as he rounded a curve and that he did not see the woman walking on the pavement until his car struck her. Several other persons, who happened by after the accident occurred, also were called to testify.

It required but a few minutes for the jury to decide that Goss was not to blame for the accident. Sheriff Jensen said this morning that no action would be taken against the Appleton man.

Mrs. Gibbs was walking along the pavement toward Appleton after the car in which she was riding with John Schille, Sturgeon Bay had swerved into the ditch. She started for Menasha while Schille stayed behind to superintend the removal of his car from the ditch.

Funeral services for Mrs. Gibbs will be held at 8:15 Thursday morning at the home of her mother, Mrs. Christina Goss, 1814 N. Oneida-st., and at 9 o'clock at St. Mary church at Menasha, with the Rev. John Hummel officiating. Mrs. Gibbs, a widow, is survived by two children; her mother, four sisters and four brothers.

COUNCIL CANDIDATES SPEND ALMOST $100

Almost $100 was spent prior to the general election by candidates for seats on the common council, expense accounts filed with Carl Becker, city clerk, indicate. The only applicants who spent nothing were elected to office. C. O. Davis, Wenzel Haassmann and Philipp Vogt. Other expenses included: Ray E. Giese, $11; Oren Earle, $9.30; E. L. Williams, $9.50; W. H. Gmeiner, $15; Frank Schwanke, $10.50; John Doro, $5.25; Robert McGillan, $17.50; W. H. Vanderheyden, $5.50; Fred Wiese, $4; and the Fifth Ward voters club $23.25.

All expense accounts for supervisors are not available in the clerk's office, but little expense was incurred by the 12 supervisory candidates.

FURNITURE DEALERS HEAR ASSEMBLYMAN

Harold Malchow, assemblyman from the first Brown-co. district, spoke before the Fox River Valley Furniture Dealers' association at the monthly meeting Monday night at the Beaumont hotel, Green Bay. He mentioned some of the bills which have recently been passed and other which are coming up soon, and stated that the only way by which the assemblymen know what the people want is by hearing from them.

A. W. Trettin and Harvey Kittner attended the meeting from Appleton. Twenty members were present. The next meeting will be May 11 at Sheboygan.

COUNCIL TO CONSIDER SUMMER PAVING BIDS

Bids for the summer's paving program will be considered at the meeting of the common council Wednesday evening.

The amendment to the junk ordinance adopted at the last meeting of the council and the revised labor ordinance may be presented, but so far no other matters of importance have been scheduled.

The new council will meet at city hall tonight for an informal discussion of future policy.

Plan Beautification Of Grounds At Grange Hall

Plans for beautifying the grounds about the Greenville Grange hall, town of Greenville, with trees and shrubbery natural to the community, were made yesterday afternoon at a meeting of a special Grange committee with Dr. Franz Aust, expert with the horticultural school of the University of Wisconsin. Gus Sell, county agent, also attended the meeting at the Grange hall.

Dr. Aust presented plans for beautifying the grounds, which were prepared by his department at Madison. Members of the committee, who with other members of the Grange, will secure many trees and shrubs to set out at a "planting bee" next Monday. Dr. Aust again will meet with the committee on Monday, April 27, when he will inspect the work done by the planters and assist the committee in putting the finishing touches on the work.

The improvement of the grounds about the Grange hall will be in the nature of an experiment because nothing but local shrubs and trees will be used in the beautification work. This plan will enable the Grange to complete the beautification program at little or no cost.

Dr. Aust is the professor in charge of the Appleton Post-Crescent Landscape Gardening school.

DEATHS

JAMES WOODS
The funeral of James Woods, pioneer Greenville farmer who died suddenly Monday noon, will be held at 7:45 Thursday morning from the residence, with services at 8:30 at St. Mary church. Burial will be in St. Mary cemetery.

MRS. W. M. KENNEDY
Mrs. A. C. Werth, 612 E. Randall-st., returned from Chicago where she attended the funeral of a friend, Mrs. W. M. Kennedy. Mrs. Kennedy, a former resident of Neenah, died last Thursday at a Chicago hospital, following an operation. Survivors are the widower and one daughter, Mary Jane.

FRED C. WARNING
The funeral of Fred C. Warning, Hortonville, who died Sunday morning, will be held at 1:30 Thursday afternoon at the home and at 2 o'clock at Emmanuel Lutheran church, with the Rev. G. E. Boettcher in charge. Burial will take place in the Union cemetery.

Survivors include the widow and six children: Edna, Melba, Arthur, Wilbur, Milton, and Emil, all at home; his parents, and three brothers.

MRS. ELIZABETH CLEVELAND
The funeral of Mrs. Elizabeth Cleveland, 1512 N. Clark-st., will be held at the Bretschneider funeral home at 8:30 Thursday morning, with services at 9 o'clock at St. Theresa church. The Rev. M. A. Hauch will be in charge, and burial will be in St. Joseph cemetery. The body can be viewed at the Bretschneider funeral home from Tuesday evening until the time of the funeral. The Christian Mothers will hold prayer services at 7:30 Tuesday and Wednesday evenings at the funeral home. Mrs. Cleveland was a member of the Christian Mothers' society of St. Theresa church and of the American Legion Auxiliary.

FRANK ST. ANDREWS
Stricken with a heart attack while shopping, Frank St. Andrews, 68, 1835 Outagamie-st., died suddenly at 9 o'clock this morning. Medical assistance was summoned, but Mr. St. Andrews was dead before doctors arrived.

Born in Ford du Lac, Mr. St. Andrews moved to Kaukauna, where he was a yardmaster for the Chicago and Northwestern railroad. Ill health forced him to retire about six years ago, when he moved to Appleton. He was a member of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen. Survivors are the widow; one daughter, Mrs. Fred Wettengel; one sister, Mrs. Lizzie Howe, San Diego, Mary church.

Two members of the architectural bureau of the Y. M. C. A. at Chicago will be brought here, the board decided, to go over the association building, check equipment and suggest plans for making departments and dormitories more modern.

The finance committee reviewed the association budget for the first three months and was given permission to make necessary additional revisions for the next nine months. General agencies of the Y. M. C. A. were discussed. It was decided contributions to them should be made in May each year instead of late in the year. A ventilating fan for the men's lobby and the question of a boys' camp also was discussed.

Calif., and one grandchild. The funeral will be held from

STUDENTS TELL OF SCHOOLS IN FOREIGN LANDS

Chinese, Turk, and Native of Virgin Island on Chapel Program

Three foreign students, a Chinese, a Turk, and a native of the Virgin Islands explained their native school systems to Lawrence college students Monday morning during the student convocation at Lawrence Memorial Chapel. All three men, foreign students doing graduate work at the University of Wisconsin, were brought to Appleton with a group of four foreign students in the interest of world fellowship.

Che Ming Liu, a native of Peking, China, is studying for his doctor's degree in political science. He explained that the old Chinese systems are disappearing in favor of a new educational system modeled after the U. S. plan.

"We have a grade school and junior and senior high school system very similar to this country," Mr. Liu said. "There are many colleges and universities in China. Peking alone having 73 within the city, but most of them are smaller than the average U. S. institution. The University of Peking is largest, with 3,000 students, while the rest average 500 students each."

Few Graduate Schools
Few of the Chinese universities have graduate schools, Mr. Liu pointed out. The largest in China is located in Peking and has an enrollment of only about 80 students. The subjects studied are similar to the curriculum of American schools, including all the sciences, arts, and liberal arts and languages.

China has assimilated western ideas about athletics and in many schools a certain number of years of physical education is required. Basketball, football, tennis, baseball, swimming and many other American sports are popular with natives. Because the political situation is so unsettled, Mr. Liu said the Chinese student is greatly handicapped, and American students do not appreciate the peace and security in which they are able to pursue their books.

The dark-skinned Turk, Memduh Bey Mazloum, extended a cordial invitation to all American students on behalf of the students of Turkey to visit his native land and see for themselves the Turkish schools and meet Turkish students. He explained that student guides from Turkish colleges are furnished whenever possible for foreign visitors.

Grade Schools Similar
Mazloum explained that while Turkey employs a grade school plan similar to the American idea, the high school and college work is combined and lasts ten years, the first six being applied on high school subjects and the remaining four on college subjects. The Master's degree is unknown in Turkey, but the ten years of preparation after grade school necessary to obtain a B. A. degree in that country corresponds to a similar period necessary to win a Master's degree in America.

Turkish schools have many similar activities, Memduh Bey pointed out, but they do not stress athletics as much. Plays are very popular, and instead of having school varieties the various classes organize teams for tournaments within the schools and professional clubs take care of inter-city competition. The nation team which represents Turkey against other European countries is chosen from these clubs, he explained. Soccer ball, very popular in most of the countries of Europe, is the leading game in Turkey, and American football and baseball are seldom if ever heard of.

Amendment His Islands
Mr. Flemming from the Virgin Islands, a senior at the University of Wisconsin and a champion debater, orator and honor student, explained that "our system is too much like that of the United States for local purposes" and then described the economic condition of the islands and explained how the depression has affected their commerce.

"The United States acquired possession of the islands from Holland in 1917 by a transfer," Mr. Flemming said, "and because of the eighteenth amendment which we inherited, our principle industry, that of rum manufacture, was taken from us. Most of the present depression in the islands is due to the fact that the outlet for their sugar through rum manufacture was destroyed and that the commercial market for sugar was not sufficient to consume the surplus product."

Mr. Flemming said the U. S., with Jews in the east, Orientals in the west, and negroes in the south, formed an excellent laboratory for experimentation.

"We do not think of all Chicagoans as Capones," Mr. Flemming said, "so why not consider every man, whether white or dark a gentleman until he has proven himself otherwise?"

The three students addressed departments of the church school, the men's club and the morning service at the Congregational church Sunday, were entertained at a reception at the home of Dr. and Mrs. H. E. Peabody in the afternoon, and in the evening conducted a young people's discussion on Friction Points between the Orient and Occident. One of the trio spoke before a high school assembly Monday afternoon.

The above deal requires not only good bidding in order to reach a game going contract but likewise involves a point of play very often overlooked.

As to the Contract bidding, South must open the bidding with a forcing bid of Two on a four card suit in order to assure having another chance to bid. He is not particularly anxious to play the hand with Spades as trump. He would just as soon play it with Hearts the trump, or if partner should happen to hold the Diamonds, at No Trump.

As to the play, Declarer must refuse to play the King of Diamonds from Dummy on West's Queen at the opening lead, for he does not wish East to get in the lead and lead through his Ace and Queen of Clubs at this early stage. If West should happen to have the K-J or K-10 of Clubs and also the guarded Queen of Hearts, a Club lead by East might save the game.

Salient Points of Bidding

Contract: South opens the bidding with Two Spades, and West passes. North has the choice between a bid of Two No Trumps and a bid of Three Spades, for partner's original Two bid has indicated distributed value. While we do not assist the suit that has not been rebid when holding three small trumps if it can be avoided, it is perfectly permissible to assist when holding three to a high honor. In this case it makes no difference whether North assists Spades or bids a No Trump, so we will assume that he bids Three Spades. East passes and South now bids Four Hearts, which concludes the bidding.

Auction: South with a worthless doubton opens the bidding with One Spade. It is a very close question here as to whether or not he should adopt the Contract bid and bid Two; however, the bid of One seems preferable. West passes and North, not knowing as he did at Contract that South has a very powerful hand, feels that there might be a better chance for game at No Trump even though the Hearts are not assuredly stopped and the Clubs are not stopped at all. He has not an assist in his own hand but has the trick and a half which partner had a right to expect, and a bid of One No Trump does not increase the contract. East passes and South bids Two Hearts, concluding the bidding.

The Play

West opens the Queen of Diamonds and Declarer can see that he must lose two Diamonds, that he will probably lose one Club and he may lose one Heart on the finesse. Accordingly he plays low from Dummy to keep East from obtaining the lead. Three rounds of Diamonds are led, Declarer trumping the last round.

He then leads the Jack of Spades from own hand and takes it with the Ace in Dummy in order to take the Heart finesse. This proving successful, he exhausts East's trumps and again enters Dummy with the Ten of Spades in order to take the Club finesse. This latter finesse loses but Dummy can discard his remaining losing Club on Declarer's long Spade.

MONEY OFFERED AT LOW INTEREST RATE DURING DEPRESSION

Reason Is That Industry Does Not Need Funds When Business Is Slack

BY GEORGE T. HUGHES
Copyright 1931, By Cons. Press

New York.—In times of prolonged business depression money accumulates largely because there is no demand for it by industry. The result is that the excess is offered on loan at low interest rates but only on the best of collateral. Borrowers are limited in number and eventually funds are forced into securities.

At first short term securities are the only ones wanted. Capital is traditionally timid and never more so than when times are bad. It will take no chances and its owners buy Government bonds of nearby maturity. The inquiry for these is so large, however, that the market price advances and the return becomes steadily lower. Then the buying movement broadens out to take in the best of corporate securities, first those of short and medium maturity and finally those of long term, still taking practically no chances. This, too, proves unremunerative from the standpoint of return and after a longer or shorter period the buying turns to bonds and to preferred stocks just slightly under the gilt edge classification. Eventually this buying also is reflected in market price and the yield correspondingly decreases.

Then when the business depression has run a year or two, or sometimes longer, capital decides to go a step further. Investors begin to look at securities not alone from the standpoint of return but from that of the possibility of price appreciation. Then begins recovery in the stock market, but it is recovery subject to many interruptions. What is wanted is a stock which combines reasonable return on the money and an improving trade position. Take U. S. Steel for instance, the common stock will be bought when and if it gives a higher return on the money it takes to buy it than is to be had on sound bonds and high grade preferred stocks, but if the steel business takes a turn for the worse capital

HEAR 70 CRIMINAL CASES AT SUPERIOR

Madison.—(AP)—The superior jury term of the U. S. District court will hear 70 criminal cases when it convenes at Superior May 15, according to Lyman Powell, assistant district attorney.

Judge T. W. Slick, South Bend, Ind., will preside and will later occupy the court bench here at a term during which about 130 criminal cases will be heard. Judge F. A. Geiger, Milwaukee, who conducts court here semi-monthly, will dispose of the 30 pending padlock cases at the rate of five every two weeks, the attorney said.

WIRED FUSES

Whining electric motors stop. Busy factory wheels slow down... a mechanic runs a wire around a burned out fuse and the work speeds on... But what about the next time? Fuses are the safety valves of your electric power. When the load gets too heavy for the wires to carry without heating, a fuse burns out. Slugs... coins... wires... fuses of too high amperage... all defeat the purpose of the fuse. REGULATION OF NEW SECURITIES FLOW IS SOUGHT

Huge Totals of Stocks and Bonds Released on Market

BY CHARLES F. SPEARE
Copyright, 1931, By Cons. Press
Wall Street, New York (CPA)—It is quite possible that at some of the spring meetings of the governors of the Investment Bankers association the question of a better regulation of the flow of new securities will be discussed and efforts made to correct market conditions, following the emission of huge totals of stocks and bonds within a comparatively short period of time.

The situation is again rather acute following the large volume of new securities in March and the introduction into the market last week of nearly $300,000,000 par value of bonds, or the greatest amount for any single week since 1927.

The decline in the prices of the Pennsylvania railroad and New York Central bond issues below the initial offering prices of a month ago and the poor distribution known to have taken place in other corporation issues brought out this month, has been due not only to the volume of these offerings but to the poor timing of them, and to a certain extent, to the price disturbance in all grades of securities.

Little Regulation Seen
Last week's offerings of nearly $300,000,000 of corporation bonds had to compete with an equal amount of U. S. treasury bills which were generously subscribed to by banks and concerns that normally would be substantial buyers of long term obligations. There has apparently been very little regulation of the supply of corporation bonds with respect to the simultaneous offerings of unusually large sums of government and municipal paper.

A feature of the corporation offerings so far this year has been the size of the individual issues. This has been a factor in delaying distribution and in softening prices so that popular bonds have frequently been available from 1 to 15 points below the advertised price within twenty-four hours of the announcement of sale. Out of 18 separate issues brought out this year, ten were for amounts ranging from $50,000,000 to $100,000,000 and eight for sums between $25,000,000 and $50,000,000. Within a comparatively short time the market has had a $100,000,000 issue by New York City, another $100,000,000 by the Pennsylvania Power and Light company, a $75,000,000 sale by the Pennsylvania railroad and one of $68,000,000 by the port of New York authority.

In three months there have been half a dozen offerings amounting to $50,000,000 each and two of $40,000,000.

Many "Gone Sour"
The difficulty of great size is similar to that experienced by a recent syndicate which found it was necessary for dealers in the group to persuade clients to sell other issues in order to raise the funds sufficient to subscribe to the new bonds. In other words, it has been hard to find, outside of the savings banks and life insurance companies, sufficient new capital to take up the full amount of these large units of new bonds. Consequently, some of them have, in the vernacular of Wall Street, "gone sour" and lower prices than those now bid for syndicate accounts are anticipated, when free markets are established.

Attempts have been made at different times to regulate the output of bonds to the current conditions of the market and its ability to absorb those offerings submitted to it. The success of such efforts have not been satisfactory to those who have attempted it. This is due to the extreme competition among investment bankers for new business; also to differences of opinion as to the actual situation in the market, such as whether it is really congested or can accommodate additional supplies. It is recognized that until some agency with the proper authority is able to obtain from issuing houses and dealers in securities their actual position from week to week or month to month with respect to unsold bonds, that little progress in the way of regulation similar to that in effect during the war, can be expected. Some such plans as this is now being advocated. It is expected that it may be presented in official form before the end of this year.

16-Cent Gasoline Tax Is Threat In Great Britain

London—(AP)—An additional gasoline tax of 8 cents a gallon, doubling the present rate, is confronting British motorists.

The measure is being discussed unofficially in parliamentary circles, almost a certain indication that the exchequer plans to ask for this additional revenue.

Americans who may wonder why so many of their British cousins drive bicycles or motorcycles, or drive the tiny cars known in the United States as "road bugs" will find the explanation in English gas prices and license fees.

Gasoline of medium grade now costs (with the present tax) 32 cents a gallon in the larger cities and up to 45 cents in outlying neighborhoods. Adding another 8 cents would make motor fuel range from 40 to 53 cents for a British standard gallon, which is 20 per cent larger than the American measure.

To offset the added gas tax, the government is proposing that the annual license fee of $4.88 per horsepower be reduced one-fourth.

Just what the annual fee means to the motor car owner can be learned

It Is Said--

That two members of the police department recently went fishing at Partridge lake, Winneconne—that is one of the officers went fishing and caught a few fish, while the other officer just went along for the ride. He sat up in the bow of the boat most of the time, smoking his pipe and trying, to talk his brother officer into giving him a nice ride around the lake. The ride never came, however, for the police driver is a much better dry land chauffeur than a sailor and although he wouldn't admit it the waves rolling on Partridge lake on the afternoon in question, probably would have swamped the boat within a few minutes.

That if the city council decides to follow the recommendations of the National Board of Fire Underwriters and engages 16 more firemen the police and fire commission will experience little difficulty finding sufficient men to fill the jobs. Saturday, as a result of a story published in Friday's Post-Crescent in which the recommendations of the national board were listed, John Rich, secretary of the fire commission, received applications from 15 men seeking jobs as firemen.

THREE REPUBLICANS ARE FAVORED FOR HOUSE SPEAKERSHIP

Tilson, Snell or Wood to Succeed Longworth, Lawrence Thinks

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright 1931 by Post Pub. Co.
Washington (CPA)—Although the contest for a speakership of the house of representatives is more than seven months away, there is already activity on the part of Republican leaders looking toward the promotion of individual candidates. Representatives Tilson of Connecticut, Snell of New York, and Wood of Indiana, are of course in the limelight and the Republican selection will be one of the three. Judging by the number of friends each has it is not likely that any one will get a clear majority without considerable campaigning. Much can happen between now and the time the Republican caucus meets to select a candidate, but unless some outside influence is brought to bear the party will find itself hopelessly divided at a time when it particularly needs unanimity. There are reports current that even Mr. Longworth would have had a hard time correlating all the votes of his party, especially since an insurgent group is always ready to demand concessions as the price of its support.

The progressive group in the senate will be vitally interested in the line up since the insurgents in the house are very closely affiliated with the senate progressives through the influence of Senators La Follette of Wisconsin and Norris of Nebraska. Mr. Norris is anxious to get the cooperation of the house in passing the lame duck amendment and he is also interested in early action on Muscle Shoals. "Whoever gets the speakership on the Republican side may have to make promises on these points.

Division Not Likely
A division in the ranks of the Republicans would of course have the effect of forcing control of the house of representatives into the hands of the Democrats but this would mean the loss of committee chairmanships to the Republicans at a time when the progressive Republicans are most anxious to play a larger part in the affairs of the house. Liberalization of the rules will probably be insisted upon by the insurgent Republicans, particularly as to the number of signers necessary to discharge a committee. It is not

GIRL ON STAND IN "LOVE BAZAAR" CASE

Testifies at Preliminary Hearing of Pantages and Four Others

San Diego, Calif.—(AP)—A 17-year-old girl's story of her subjection to alleged immoralities in an asserted "love bazaar" was a center of interest in the preliminary hearing of Alexander Pantages, theatre operator, and four others on morals charges here today.

Jerry Geister, representing Pantages, said he wished to learn from 17-year-old Lydia Nitto, co-accuser with Miss Camille Livingston, what treatment she had received from the Los Angeles authorities since Oct. 30, 1930, the date of an alleged Pantages party here.

Judge Arthur L. Mundo temporarily sustained a state objection yesterday to prevent cross examination of Miss Nitto on that point. Miss Livingston prepared to take the a substantial majority they can always modify the same rules.

The Democrats are viewing the situation complacently because they would much rather see the Republicans in confusion than united. Also the Democrats are not at all eager for house control because it involves responsibility for a chaotic situation in the handling of legislation. There has been talk that several Republicans would stay away and force Democratic control but the chances are the other way—so there will probably be a large number of Democrats absent so as to make absolutely sure that the Republicans assume control, especially if they have a numerical majority.

The only outside influence that can change all this is public opinion, which may between now and next December grow restive under an apprehension lest the political jockeying create a disturbance in the orderly processes of government and cause an unsettling in business psychology.

witness stand upon a final ruling by the court on the state's objection. Winning only in the intimate details of her story, Miss Nitto told how she was brought here Oct. 30, with Miss Livingston, for Pantages, John P. Mills and Jesse Shreve, Los Angeles and San Diego real estate brokers.

The girls said they were brought here by William Jobelmann and Mrs. Olive Clark Day, alleged operators of a girl bureau for wealthy men in Los Angeles.

Miss Nitto described the alleged party at a hotel here, in which she said liquor flowed freely.

Miss Livingston created an uproar when unable to identify Pantages and Shreve, who were sitting within the courtroom railing, she was permitted to walk through the crowd in search of them.

After ten minutes she finally recognized Pantages, who smiled as the spectators clapped. She then was asked to point out Shreve. She looked five minutes, but failed to identify him.

Pantages was accompanied in court by his wife.

DESIRABLE FURNISHINGS NEEDED

The more necessary objects needed for furnishing a Living Room are a Sofa, a table large enough to hold magazines, lamps, books, and flowers, two comfortable chairs, and a small table.

To them may be added, in dark woods, a pair of book-cases, or a pair of straight chairs, a low bench, desk, and hanging shelves.

It is best not to group the essential pieces in the middle of the living room. If the center space is kept clear and open, the size of the room appears increased.

Corners arranged with a table and two or more chairs are informal and attractive. A lamp on the table heightens the interest and invites reading.

Your decorator will materially assist you in correctly placing these pieces.

Church Is Own Enemy, Says Pastor

The Christians of the people in the church, they are against to its needs and opportunities to their great opportunity as Christian leaders, were counted as greater enemies of the church than gambling dens and bootleggers' dives in the address delivered by the Rev. Anton Odenholm at First Baptist church Sunday evening.

"The greatest enemy of the church is the church itself," he said. "America's greatest need is honest-to-goodness, God-fearing Christians. I am not afraid of any gambling den or bootleggers' dive halting the progress of the church. To the real honest, sincere Christian, these establishments offer no temptation. Real Christians and followers of Jesus Christ are above such sordid temptations of life."

"Only fools hide behind the excuse that there are irresistible temptations which prevent them from being real Christians. Conscious of the will of the Father, the real Christian pluckily ignores the strongholds of iniquity."

The church was criticized by the speaker when he said, "The quicker it stops fooling around with non-essentials and starts playing ball, the quicker it will get somewhere. I never worry about the effect on the church of athletes and athletes' outside of its membership. It is the carelessness of the people in the church."

Tuesday evening the evangelist will speak on Almighty God in the Hands of a Man. The public is invited to the meetings.

Miss Anita Cast opened a discussion of the rural work of the Methodist church at the meeting of the high school Epworth League at the church Sunday evening. The subject will be continued at the next meeting.

Russell Deneyes was the leader at the meeting of the Fireside Fellowship group Sunday evening.

Informal Ensemble Isn't Affected By Fashion Change Because Of Simplicity

BY JEAN PATOU

Paris—The morning or informal ensemble is the one which, at casual glance, would appear to be less affected by any change of fashion, owing to its basic simplicity of line. As a matter of fact, this category of dress happens to be the first to be influenced by the variations of the mode, but in a very subtle way. It is also the one type of dress that seems to date quicker than any other.

The characteristic note of each season is emphasized in the informal ensemble more than in any other because its composition changes with the season. A winter morning ensemble is usually composed of a dress and long coat. The latter is shortened to three-quarters length for the mid-season and disappears all together in the spring, where it is replaced by the jacket. A summer weight long coat is only necessary to a conventional sports suit or a traveling outfit.

The tailored suits we shall see this summer will show an undeniable stamp of fashion's trend in the waistline. This means that the waist will always be underlined, either by the cut of the garment or the addition of a belt; but the silhouette will remain clear-cut and free from all cumbersome trimmings.

Fabrics now date almost as quickly as fashions themselves. This year's suits will be known by their diagonal weaves, which have taken the place of tweeds or mottled designs. Colors are on the lighter side, but black still predominates in prints, usually combined with white and gray. Navy and white is another excellent combination and new. In the semi-formal tailleur of silk the smartest design is the small lozenge, in the colors mentioned. I prefer these to checks, as being more original and striking a fresh note.

A conservative little lozenge design print in black and white silk is used by Patou for a charming semi-formal dress and jacket ensemble (right). Patou favors the basque jackets for his smart morning suit. The one at the left in gray and white diagonal weave, has a very youthful and flattering effect with its flaring jacket and double-breasted closing.

Fear Might Cause Child To Be Sick

BY ANGELO PATRI

Bobbie began to complain of his stomach every morning. "It scratches me inside."

"Where does it hurt you, Bobbie?"

"It doesn't hurt exactly. It scratches me. I can't eat any breakfast. My stomach hurts me."

"He has been saying this lately since he got into the new class. If I keep him home from school he immediately feels better. After an hour or so of doodles to his well. No sooner do I tell him that it is time for school than his stomach begins to scratch him."

"I'd just send him along and let him get over it but I can see that he is growing more and more nervous, eating less, sleeping less, playing less, all the time. Something must be the matter with him. His teacher is very strict. Watches every move the children make and if they don't do just right they have to stay in and write sentences, and get bad marks."

"Bobbie has never had any trouble in school. His marks are good. But I think he is afraid. Would that make all this trouble?"

Yes, that would make all this trouble. It would make all sorts of trouble for certain children who are in dread and fear if the teacher frowns upon them. It is the growth of the sensitive child. It is a check on the growth of any child. It is likely to warp his thought and dwarf his body.

Then why did the teacher make this child afraid? She did not do so purposely, you can be assured. But a class is made up of all sorts of children. Some of them shy and sensitive, some of them healthy, husky little creatures without a nerve in their bodies as to the growth of the sensitive child. Some of them are children of dull mentality, poor behavior traits, and deficient school work. These will disrupt the work of the class unless the teacher suppresses them. This she does by preserving a stern demeanor, a hard voice, an eagle eye. Fear holds the unruly ones in check and they must be held down if the teacher is to live in the room and get any work done.

The attitude the teacher takes to hold the hard members of the class strikes fear into the souls of the gentle and sensitive children. They suffer accordingly and soon have to be withdrawn. The teacher is not to blame when this condition exists. She cannot change her manner and mood with the need of each child when she has a class of forty, fifty, sixty and this happens often that you would like to believe.

What then shall we do? Sort the children into groups that are easier to handle because their tastes and abilities are more nearly alike. Give the hard members of society the course of study they need and they will be far less troublesome. Give the rapidly advancing children a chance to work along their own line of growth with their own rate of speed.

Train teachers so they will know exactly the effect their methods have on the different children of the classes so they can save the timid ones, or stimulate the slow ones, or adjust the unhappy ones. But please do not blame the teacher until the school authorities have made it possible for her to deal with children as individuals. Give the school a chance by allowing it equipment and a well manned organization. Teachers are far from perfect but they are much overburdened.

U. S. Hostess

A great - great - grandniece of George Washington will be hostess to the throngs that will visit the replica of Mount Vernon, historic Virginia estate of the first President at the forthcoming International Exposition in Paris. She is Miss Anne Madison Washington, above, who will sail for France on the line George Washington to be present at the opening of the exposition on May 1.

Five Girls Have Prospects Of Becoming Movie Stars

Hollywood—Five new faces, all belonging to potential screen stars, are beginning to glimmer faintly but promisingly in the cinema heavens.

The faces of all five girls will glow more brightly in the very near future, according to executives of the Paramount studio where they are under contract. The girls were signed to long-term contracts, with an eye toward grooming them for stardom more or less as a result of Warner Brothers stealing Ruth Chatterton, William Powell and Kay Francis from the Paramount "family."

This act of Warner's, in violation to the so-called "gentlemen's agreement" which has existed among producers here for several years, had Paramount in a spot. They had to have more names on their roster. Two roads were open. They could either establish players from other studios or they could build prospective youngsters into new stars. The latter course was chosen—with the result that Sylvia Sydney, Carman Barnes, Wynne Gibson, Tallulah Bankhead and Juliette Compton now have long-term contracts.

Where They Came From

"One of the newcomers already is a film star in her own right in England. Three of them have been on the legitimate stage and have had a little screen experience. The fifth had had no experience on either stage or screen."

Juliette Compton is the English star who is being groomed for a similar position in American films. Miss Compton's start in the show world was made on the New York stage in "The Kiss Burglar." Following that she spent a season as a Ziegfeld Follies beauty and then went to England where she played on the legitimate stage in several shows before motion pictures claimed her.

For nearly five years Miss Compton starred for both British International and British Dominion productions. About a year ago she came to Hollywood to make her debut in the talkies. Her four pictures to date indicate that it will not be long until leading roles are handed to her.

Is Real "Mystery"

Carman Barnes is the real "mystery" of this quintet—a mystery because as yet nobody knows what she can do. Although only 18 years of age, Carman already has written two novels—"School Girl" and "Beau Lover." As a result of those books she was signed by Paramount as a writer, but upon her arrival here somebody thought she should be an actress. A test was made and Carman became a film star.

Miss Barnes' case is a perfect example of the idiosyncrasies of Hollywood. Because she made good as a novelist she was made a film star without anyone knowing what she can or cannot do as an actress. In my opinion this act of the Paramount executives is starting the girl out on a terrific handicap. She seems to have possibilities as a star if she first were given the proper "build-up" in three or four supporting roles. But to make her carry the entire weight of her first production on her own shoulders is asking quite a lot.

Sylvia Sydney's first attempt to crash the movies started and ended very quietly without any fuss being made over her. After a very successful stage career, she came to the film capital and played in one picture, "Thru Different Eyes." Then when other offers did not follow, she returned to the footlights again.

It was on the actress' second entrance into the motion picture world that genuine luck was with her. Only a few days after her arrival in Hollywood, Clara Bow's physician ordered her to take a month's rest. "City Streets," in which Clara and Gary Cooper were to be co-starred, was just about to go into production. Studio officials didn't feel that they could hold up production for an entire month so Miss Sydney was assigned to the role the red-headed queen was to have played.

Wynne's Bad Luck

Wynne Gibson claims that if she ever attains screen stardom it will be due to the fact that she played in so many " flop " shows on the stage. "Because the shows 'flopped' as quickly I had considerable training in a great variety of roles, which is the best thing that can happen to any actress," she declares.

However, she finally hit a success—"Jarnegan"—and while still playing in that made her film debut in "Nothing but the Truth." Following the run of "Jarnegan" she came to Hollywood to enter upon her film career in earnest. So far she has made five pictures and has shown considerable promise in each of them.

Tallulah Bankhead's career prior to coming to Hollywood a few weeks ago parallels Miss Compton's in that she achieved her greatest success in England. Her appearances, however, were made solely on the legitimate stage and not on the London stage. It was her work there in "The Green Hat" and "Let Us Be Gay" that netted her her present contract and launched her upon a new career.

New Heads Of Shrine Are Seated

NEW officers of Valley Shrine No. 10, were installed at the meeting Monday night at Masonic temple. Installing officers were W. B. Basing, watchman of the shepherd; Mrs. Adelle Wheeler, worthy chaplain; and Mrs. Lillian Runnels, worthy scribe.

HARD TIMES BRING MENUS OF LUXURY

Warsaw—(AP)—Polish peasants have found a silver lining in the cloud of adversity which has shadowed farms throughout the world.

Prices of eggs, poultry, vegetables, butter and milk are so low that many peasants do not find it worth while to take their products to city markets. They prefer to eat them.

As a result Polish peasants who for centuries have lived on potatoes and rye bread, selling all other products, now sit down to plates of chicken, vegetables, butter and eggs.

Health conditions on Polish farms have improved materially, especially among the children, and doctors say the death rate is the lowest in the history of the country.

City relatives of the farmers also are finding the uses of adversity sweet. The rush from the farms crowded the urban centers and unemployment has left 350,000 without jobs.

But an appeal to the folks back home in the country brings gifts of palatable food, and individual suffering has been comparatively small.

LODGE WILL BE HOSTESS TO DISTRICT

Deborah Rebekah lodge of Appleton will be hostess to a district meeting of Rebekahs Wednesday afternoon and evening at Odd Fellow hall. Several state officers are expected to attend, including Mrs. Grace Askew, state president, Madison. Delegations will be present from Sturgeon Bay, Green Bay, De Pere, Manitowoc, Two Rivers, Kaukauna, Neenah, and Menasha.

A business session will be held at 2 o'clock in the afternoon at which district officers will be elected. A 6 o'clock supper will be served during which a program of readings and music will be presented.

At the meeting of Deborah Rebekah lodge in the evening, initiation of two candidates will take place. Members who play to entertain visitors are to leave their names with Mrs. Josephine Burhans, noble grand.

Club Hears Discussion About Spain

THE romance of Spain crept into the home of Mrs. Anna Fenton, 606 E. College-ave, Monday afternoon at the meeting of the Monday club, when Miss Charlotte Lorenz, Spanish instructor at Lawrence college, who recently traveled in Europe, gave an illustrated talk on Spain, its people, its customs, and dress. She showed slides of the various parts of the country through which she had traveled and of some of the well-known buildings in the larger cities of Spain.

After the program at which 25 members were present, Spanish crackers and chocolate were served by the hostess assisted by Miss Dorothy Fenton, who was attired in Valencia costume. The members answered roll call with incidents of their own travel.

The next meeting will be April 27 at the home of Mrs. J. W. Wilson, 517 N. Mary-st, with Mrs. C. D. Thompson in charge of the program on Letters of Kathryn Mansfield.

PICK DELEGATE AND ALTERNATE OF LOCAL LODGE

Miss Mabel Burko, worthy grand regent of Catholic Daughters of America, and Miss Katherine Derby, vice regent, were elected delegates and alternate, respectively, to the state convention to be held April 25 and 26 at Menasha, at the meeting of the local court Monday night at Catholic home. It is expected that almost the entire court will go to Menasha for this meeting. An invitation has been received from Court Allouez, Menasha, asking the local group to attend the convention.

The state convention of the Wisconsin Conference of Catholic Women, with which the Catholic Daughters are affiliated, will be held May 18 and 19 at Kenosha. Mrs. Elizabeth Grogan, Kaukauna, and Mrs. William Nemachek will be the two delegates from Court Ave Maria, Appleton.

Mrs. William Wright and Mrs. Clarence Richter will present "Hungarian Fantasy" by Liszt, Miss Dorothy Murphy and Miss Ann Thomas will play "A Minor Concerto" by Grieg, and Mrs. S. J. Kloehn and Miss Thomas will give "E Flat Major Concerto" by Liszt.

The Misses Mary Jane Dehary and Marjorie Meyer will present a group of selections including Valse du Ballet, "La Belle Au Bois Dormant" by Tchaikowsky, "La Sevillane" by C. Charminade, and "Tarentelle" by Pirne.

K. OF C. WILL INITIATE CLASS

Twenty candidates will be initiated into the first degree at the meeting of the Father Fitzmaurice council, Knights of Columbus, at Columbia hall at 8 o'clock Thursday evening. Exemplification of the degree will be done by a team from the Kaukauna court with William T. Sullivan, past district deputy, in charge. The Appleton council plans the initiation of one more first degree class about the middle of May. The Rev. Anselm M. Kiefe, Ph. D. rector at St. Norbert's college at De Pere, will give a talk following the degree work, on the recent encyclical of Pope Pius XI, on "Christian Marriage."

FIND STRONG TREES CROWD OUT WEAK ONES

State College, Pa.—(AP)—Even in the primeval forest there exists a strange property right among the trees.

Good forest land contains usually fewer trees than poor sites, says Prof. H. J. Lutz, of Penn State college in a report to the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

Like the humans able to build beautiful homes, the trees on especially good land obtain enough extra powers of dominance to prevent the fine site from becoming so crowded.

This is true only of the "adult" forests. In their juvenile stages, the good sites usually support poor sites. With growth comes elimination by competition.

HEAVY WIND DAMAGES MANY SEEDED FIELDS

BY W. F. WINSEY

Shawano—Sand and soil storms did considerable damage Sunday to fields that were seeded in Shawano county. A lunch will be served. Mrs. Lehrer will be in charge.

The West End Reading club will meet at 2:30 Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Otto Kuchmsted, 108 S. Lave-st. Mrs. Harry Lewis will read from the "Woman of Andros" by Thornton Wilder.

The Story of Sue

by MARGERY HALE
© 1929 by NEA Service, Inc.

"CAN I prove it?" Donald Payne asked Sue a question which she had asked in connection with his account of the treasury that Sybil Leister had practiced. "My sheet never tells anything but the truth...weren't so keen on libel suits...and it will have every word of this in when it comes from the press in about two and one half minutes."

"Then tell me quickly!" Sue urged. "Sure you don't want to read it for yourself?" the teasing, red-headed gatherer of police news asked. "Well, I had some idea that the taxicab was going to get away with a perfectly clear meter. So we got busy."

"We checked up every possible source and found a trainman who had seen a burly looking sort of man and a slim young fellow slide into a taxicab that night. That was all we needed. We knew that Sybil hadn't taken the train. Then the next thing was to find where she had parked the bus. I did some sleuthing. And there it was in the garage, as big as you please."

"I told the manager of the taxi stand and gave the dope to the police. There are plenty of witnesses to prove that point. Not all the men on duty know the story. That's why you're probably had reason to believe that everything was against you. But the very fact that Sybil swore that she was forced into the cab when we have the appellation on her, makes her story the bunk. Corinne's saved by...a taxicab."

"And that means that..."

"Charges will be placed against Sybil and your father's case will be dismissed."

"And what will happen to Sybil?"

"Stripped of all her rights of citizenship and manacles until she reaches an age when such things aren't important, I suppose."

"Does Jack know all of this?"

"Probably by now. I haven't seen him. Corinne can come home when a few tangles are straightened."

"But if Sybil still swears that this is part of a frame-up..."

"The car was out in her garage when she didn't know it."

"Never mind that. Never bother trouble till trouble bother you. Sybil's fingerprints are on that gun along with Redding's. And her fingerprints are on the steering wheel, too. She's cornered. Besides..."

"He paused to blow circles of smoke, and watch them float away. 'Besides, Sybil is suddenly overcome with a fear of flunking the entrance examination into the next world. Her conscience is busy. And she is admitting more than she realizes.'"

"Won't her father's money buy her a ticket out?"

"Not this time."

"Jack came while they were talking, and one glance at his face showed Sue that something else had happened."

"This fracas wouldn't be complete without a death," he said. "We've just had it."

NEXT: Jack explains.

When serving individual fruit salads, put a frozen pear or peach in the center of each one. To do this, pack a can of either fruit in salt and ice, open it just before serving the salad, and arrange the other fruits around it.

For clouded glass use a solution of rock lime, 1 part lime, 2 parts distilled water. Allow it to dry an hour, wash off lime with denatured alcohol. After two minutes wipe off glass with soft cloth and polish with clean soft cloth.

ROQUES' GALLERY IS URGED FOR BUG PESTS

Stamford, Conn. —(P)—Dr. E. Porter Felt purposes to save state entomologists from 20,000 different kinds of bugs.

Himself a nationally known insect man, director of the Bartlett Tree Research Laboratories, Dr. Felt says that a state entomologist today is supposed to recognize all the 20,000 bugs in his duties of protecting the farmer, the merchant and the housewife from their ravages.

It is too much for human brains unaided, especially since these same bugs have enough disguises to look like 100,000 different kinds. The disguises are nature's various forms of growing them through eggs, larva and pupa stages, and the frequent big differences she makes in the appearance of males and females.

Dr. Felt proposes to the American Association for the Advancement of Science a code identification system, so that the entomologist who meets a bug he has forgotten, or never before heard of, can go through the files in a few minutes and get acquainted. At present, says Felt, it sometimes takes several days' search to place one bug.

ALIMONY CLUBS CROWD PRISON FOR DEBTORS

London —(P)—Reports show that about 12,000 debtors are sent to prison yearly in England.

Many husbands unable to pay separate maintenance allowances to wives. Tax defaulters also are numerous.

Debtor prisoners may wear their own clothes, receive letters and talk when taking exercise. When they pay their debts, they are released.

Dull, Faded Hair... Streaked with gray is due to —

LAZY GLANDS

Don't have dull, faded hair, or ugly streaks of gray! There is a remedy. No woman under 50 need have a gray hair in her head! Her scalp still has pigment cells. Those cells are still full of color. But that color can't reach the hair if your glands are inactive.

Stimulate those lazy glands and watch those faded locks revive!

Thousands of women have actually stimulated gray hair back to its natural color. The number would be millions if more women only knew the truth—if so many had not been fooled in matters concerning the hair. Gland stimulation is the solution of just about every hair and scalp trouble we have! Yes, it makes hair grow—as you will soon discover.

If your hair is off-color or undernourished, or your scalp is full of pore filth and there is dandruff, start gland stimulation tonight. All you need is your fingers, and some Danderine. Only massage will wake up the glands, and only a penetrant like Danderine will get through to the subcutaneous glands. The very first treatment will end all dandruff, but keep on with Danderine until you have promoted vigorous coloring and growth. As the hair grows, the gray will go. You'll soon have proof if you watch the color of your hair close to the roots!

Remember, it's thorough massage that does it, and Danderine that gets through to those lazy glands. Just rubbing anything on the head won't do the work. Get your bottle of Danderine today. It's a medicine for sick scalps. The smallest bottle is enough to show results which will surprise you.

THE ORIGIN OF WRINKLES IS IN THE FEET

BY ALICIA HART

Wrinkles that mar your facial beauty often begin in the feet. Strange? Well, certain it is that feet that hurt, shoes that do not fit properly, corns, calluses and so on are the biggest contributors to fret wrinkles. They rival worry! They keep pace with heart and financial difficulties. For you may be able to forget worries once in a while. But if you have to walk and your feet are not comfortable, you have no minute of peace and hence the wrinkles.

Therefore, the very first advice to you ladies with pained expressions, to you who have those frowning lines deepening between your eyes and those horizontal bars growing bigger across your foreheads; consult a foot specialist.

For from $1.50 to $10, depending on the size of your town and the type of specialist you consult, you can have a chiropodist put your feet at ease, or explain to you just whom you should see to get that ease.

If it is bad-fitting shoes, shed them and get new and comfortable ones. Women who are on their feet a lot and women who have grown stouter without realizing it, often need a half-size longer shoes, than they have ever worn. Ten pounds added to your erstwhile weight calls for a half-size longer shoes, more often than you realize.

With your feet cared for and your new shoes comfortable, what about your wrinkles?

Work over them, don't worry! Feed them cream, massage them, give them softening facial oil. Then, see what you can do with make-up.

Do you know that you can skillfully fill in those wrinkles between the eyes and in the forehead with cream and powder over them so that they do not show? Try it. If you can't manage it yourself, go to a beauty specialist and let her demonstrate. It can be done.

And in the meantime, when night comes, smooth out your wrinkles between eyes and in the forehead, massage them and then, holding the skin smooth and unlined, put court plaster on in big enough strips to hold. Leave on overnight. Keep trying this and see what you can do towards getting yourself a pleasant expression with which to face spring.

MILLIONS OF METEORS FLY EASTWARD DAILY

Iowa City, Ia. —(P)—Eight hundred million meteors a day striking earth's atmosphere is the latest estimate.

It is given in a report to the American Association for the Advancement of Science by Prof. Charles C. Wylie of the University of Iowa.

These include the meteors too small to be observed without telescopes. The "naked eye" meteors Prof. Wylie estimates at about 24,000,000 daily, very close to the figure given by Sir Isaac Newton.

About 300 meteors a year get through the atmosphere and actually hit the United States, according to Wylie's estimates, based on figures that probably one meteor a year strikes for each 10,000 square miles. Few are seen, because they are mostly small.

An electrically operated overhead railway more than two miles long has been installed by a Hollywood motion picture company to move scenery between construction shops and stages.

WE WOMEN

By Virginia Vane

Dear Miss Vane: Three years ago my husband and I visited a distant city where we met a young man who was very much attracted to me. I love my husband and certainly did not encourage this young man's attentions, although I found him attractive. He professed to be wildly in love with me and wrote me several letters after I returned home, although I did not encourage him to do so, and never answered any of them. Now I am alone on a visit to this same city and S., the young man in question, is acting very odd. He does not appear to want to take me out, nor does he seem in the least interested in me. I should like to go out while I am here on a visit, and I know my husband would not object, but this boy refuses to have anything to do with me, although he is not interested in anyone else. Please give me your opinion.

SINCERE READER.

There's a certain type of young man who makes rather a habit of being wildly in love with pretty, young, married women. And so long as he is perfectly safe, and friend husband is around to make everything respectable, the young man will be a positively burning Romeo.

But he doesn't for a moment want to start a real affair. He doesn't want any sentimental nonsense from his married lady friend. He just wants to be rather tragic about his love for her, and have an excuse for being interestingly romantic. Outside of that he asks for nothing.

S. sounds like this type. He's probably frightened at the possibility of finding himself alone with you. He made you several devoted speeches when he last saw you, and when you'd gone away and it was a positive cinch that he'd never see you again, except with your husband he just let himself go and covered sheets of paper with his tender thoughts. But it didn't mean anything.

You've allowed yourself to count a little too much on his devotion and probably he senses this from your attitude and is scared off just as many another young four-flusher has been before him. Don't worry about it. His ardor didn't mean much in the first place. It was too easy. And now that it's more or less put to the test, it has dwindled away into nothing. Nothing to get upset about. You've just learned a lesson about the sort of sheik who flutters around young married women whispering impassionately: "Ah, if I had only met you before it was too late!" It's an old song and it seldom rings true.

M. H. W.: There are no two ways about it: Either you are engaged to the boy you love, and should therefore not see any other boys—or you're not engaged, and are therefore at liberty to see whom you please.

If there is no engagement because of the financial difficulties, which you hinted, then you two are still independent personalities. You have your job and your outside interests. He has his work and his own friends. He should not and cannot govern your other friendships. If he loves you enough he ought to trust you enough to let you have a really good friend such as you describe. There is no reason why such friendships should be denied you. Since your position as regards the man you love, is very difficult, he ought to be all the more lenient in allowing you to have such friendships as come your way.

So harden your heart and stick up for your own rights. There is no reason why you should lose a good friend to please a too-jealous male.

BRIDE-TO-BE: Gloves can be worn either way described. Preferable to wear kid. The best man should escort the matron of honor in this case.

R. R.: You deserve a lot of luck and I'm sure you'll get it in this new venture. Let me hear from you again about how it all comes out.

der thoughts. But it didn't mean anything. You've allowed yourself to count a little too much on his devotion and probably he senses this from your attitude and is scared off just as many another young four-flusher has been before him. Don't worry about it. His ardor didn't mean much in the first place. It was too easy. And now that it's more or less put to the test, it has dwindled away into nothing. Nothing to get upset about. You've just learned a lesson about the sort of sheik who flutters around young married women whispering impassionately: "Ah, if I had only met you before it was too late!" It's an old song and it seldom rings true.

M. H. W.: There are no two ways about it: Either you are engaged to the boy you love, and should therefore not see any other boys—or you're not engaged, and are therefore at liberty to see whom you please.

If there is no engagement because of the financial difficulties, which you hinted, then you two are still independent personalities. You have your job and your outside interests. He has his work and his own friends. He should not and cannot govern your other friendships. If he loves you enough he ought to trust you enough to let you have a really good friend such as you describe. There is no reason why such friendships should be denied you. Since your position as regards the man you love, is very difficult, he ought to be all the more lenient in allowing you to have such friendships as come your way.

So harden your heart and stick up for your own rights. There is no reason why you should lose a good friend to please a too-jealous male.

BRIDE-TO-BE: Gloves can be worn either way described. Preferable to wear kid. The best man should escort the matron of honor in this case.

Permanent new value for your present home

IT hurts to see your home become shabby and to realize that it is losing part of its value. That is why home owners welcome the idea of laying Creo-Dipt Stained Shingles right over the old siding—if necessary, over the old roof.

The Creo-Dipts cost no more than two thorough repainting—and they save their cost in 5 to 7 years. All genuine Creo-Dipts are stained under pressure to resist weather. The shingles are submerged into heated, agitated stain, while compressed air forces preserving oils and colors into wood pores. Ordinary shingles are merely dipped. That is why we recommend Creo-Dipts to our friends.

ELIMINATE WAR BY ARBITRATION, HOOVER'S PLEA

President Sees Americas United in Efforts to Avoid Strife

same time, is a high privilege. Richly endowed by nature, we enjoy the great advantage of inhabiting a hemisphere free from the jealousies and antagonisms which have proved such obstacles to progress and prosperity in other sections of the world. We have developed an international system based on the principle of equality, combined with a full recognition of the obligations as well as of the rights of states.

The American republics are today rapidly approaching the time when every major difference existing between them will be settled by the orderly processes of conciliation and arbitration. . . . From the earliest period of their history, the governments of the republics of this hemisphere have been earnest advocates of the peaceful settlement of international disputes. . . . The common purpose to eliminate war and the determination to achieve peace and security represent a major contribution of the Americas to modern civilization.

Secretary Stimson asserted that Pan-American day, which President Hoover had proclaimed, was "intended to emphasize those basic principles of international service which tend to bring the nations of America closer to one another."

"The constructive achievements of the last 40 years," he said, "Give promise of even larger results in the future. We have in this hemisphere entered upon a period of international development which I firmly believe is destined to give the world an outstanding example of mutual helpfulness in the solution of the problems common to all countries. Without the slightest attempt at compulsion—in an atmosphere of mutual respect and confidence—we are endeavoring to place the experience of each at the service of all, thus promoting the well-being of our respective peoples."

The secretary said the intended international cooperation called for no abandonment of legitimate national aims, but "does mean that all such conflict with the complete fulfillment of international obligations."

Asserting that the people of the Americas today have attained a "new consciousness" and face a "future loaded with great prospects and with heavy responsibilities," Ambassador Tellez said for the first time in history "a single harmonious hymn" is raised by the common aspirations of the people of the American Republics.

Need Cooperation

Secretary Stimson asserted that Pan-American day, which President Hoover had proclaimed, was "intended to emphasize those basic principles of international service which tend to bring the nations of America closer to one another."

phone tonight to New York, Station WOR picking it up there.

Celebrations in the schools and other commemorative exercises were planned but not without dissent in some quarters. The newspaper Examiner editorially said that the Pan-American movement was related to the Monroe doctrine and that it could not be denied American imperialism, under cover of the Monroe doctrine, actually existed.

In the Argentine and in Chile the day was celebrated as a holiday with special programs.

The Uruguayan government of Montevideo noted the day in an official decree and ordered all flags hoisted on public buildings today. Peru, because of its many internal problems, took no official cognizance of the day but newspapers issued special editions. In Brazil likewise there was no official recognition of the day.

DESIGN PLAN STRESSED IN GARDEN TALK

Relation to Home Grounds Development Outlined in Third Lecture

The design plan in relation to home grounds development was the keynote of the third of a series of six lectures on landscape gardening given by Dr. Frans Aust of the University of Wisconsin horticulture department in Appleton vocational school auditorium Monday evening. The class is now composed of approximately 140 people from Appleton, Green Bay, Neenah and other neighboring cities.

Dr. Aust defined design as "order in human feeling and thought and in the many and varied activities by which that feeling and thought are expressed."

Unity, harmony and proportion all play a part in the order of human feeling, while congruity, thought activity, stimulation of curiosity and fitness fall in order of human thought, he stated. He illustrated these points with stereoscopic slides, by which he traced the proper landscape design. He pointed to violations of unity, harmony and proportion in various pictures as they were thrown on the screen.

Two types of planting were outlined, the formal and informal. Dr. Aust stated that the formal type is characterized by definiteness of outline, regular forms regularly placed, lack of stimulant to imagination, points of interest well marked and statuary and architectural features prominent.

Informal Planting
The informal type of planting is characterized by irregularity of outline and forms, points of interest implied but not definitely marked, outlines and characters so arranged that they stimulate the imagination, and mass interest primary and line interest secondary.

He pointed out that the utilitarian features in the design plan include grounds, drives, terraces and walls. The determining factors of approach from each of these features includes views of the house, location of entrance, and direction of traffic, he declared.

Service driveways and sidewalks are important factors in the design plan, he stated. Walks serve as directing lines of design and must be properly placed.

A proper foreground or background can easily be created on the home property by systematic planting of shrubbery and trees, he said.

He concluded the lecture by illustrating methods employed in making the design plans. He explained methods of laying out the design and planting plans on paper, according to scale. He also outlined methods of creating dynamic symmetry in laying out the design plan.

On the Air Tonight

By the Associated Press

(By The Associated Press)
Paul Whiteman, dean of modern music, will direct his orchestra in a program of waltz music tonight at 7 o'clock over WTMJ and NBC stations. The numbers to be played are for the most part answers to popular request. They will include the grand waltz medley, and a popular medley of "Waltz You Saved for Me."

The usual pep and sparkle and cheery rhythm of the weekly minstrel program will be in evidence again during tonight's broadcast over WTMJ at 7:30 p. m. Duke and Henry, the popular end men, will play a comedy number entitled "It Ain't No Fault of Mine," and the male quartet will present "One-Man-Band."

Guy Fraser Harrison, conductor of the Rochester Civic Orchestra, and Mathilde Harding young American pianist, will be guest artists in a program of Carl Maria Von Weber music to be heard over WENR and NBC stations tonight at 9 p. m. Harrison will direct the concert orchestra in an interpretation of two numbers by the German composer, and will accompany Miss Harding who will play excerpts from the same master's "Concertstucke."

Wednesday's Features
Martin J. Insull, president of the Middle West Utilities Co., on "Electric Light and Power Holding Companies" at 8 p. m. over WTMJ and the N. B. C.

Joe McCarthy, manager of the Yankees, at 8:30 p. m. over the N. B. C.

Guy Lombardo's orchestra at 10:30 over WISN, and the Columbia chain.

Gay Social Season Given Impetus By Easter Events

BY DOROTHEA J. LEWIS
(Post-Crescent Washington Society Editor)

Washington—A true holiday week, this Easter time in Washington with society rushing madly hither and yon having a gorgeous time enjoying itself and wearing itself out. And in any free moments, it drew deep breaths and whispered about coming events which have been casting their shadows for some time, for Easter is only the beginning and the end is not in sight.

Last week there was the polo ball with all its originality and gay colorfulness. General Douglas MacArthur, chief of staff and formerly from Wisconsin, assisted the Secretary of War and Mrs. Patrick J. Hurley in receiving the guests.

The famous polo pony, "Hunter" in a box stall at one end of the ball room assisted in receiving and certainly held court. The boxes were transformed into stables and at midnight a real hunt breakfast of scrambled eggs, bacon, sausage, coffee and good hot cornbread was served. Honor guests including the Vice President entered the ball room through an archway made by the crossed polo mallets of debutantes. All very exciting and everyone was there!

Children Visit Capital
Great crowds of school children from Wisconsin, particularly from Madison and Dane-co., descended upon the National Capital Wednesday for a happy, hurried time.

Next week, and the week after and the week after. The whole family is in such a state that even Elmo feels the excitement and wags that so short tail ecstatically.

There is the prospect of the cherry blossoms soon, and that is exciting news to the whole family and to Wisconsin too, since a Wisconsin woman had so much to do with bringing those lovely pink and white blooms to the National Capital's river banks.

Miss Eliza Ruhamah Selmore, born in Madison in 1856, spent many years in Japan when her brother, George Hawthorne Selmore, also native of Madison, was a consul at the American Embassy at Yokohama. She fell in love with the beauties of Japan and in her enthusiasm described the cherry blossoms to her friend, Mrs. Howard Taft, then first lady of the land. Mrs. Taft began to experiment with the cultivation of cherry trees in Washington and in 1912 planted about 60 along the Potomac River near the White House.

Seeing our enthusiasm for their favorite flowering tree, the city of Tokyo soon after presented us with 3,000 small cherry trees which are now the pride and glory of the National Capital in early April.

Then there is the Opera—that has Mother and Aunt Minnie and Daughter all flutter and flustered. Really you can't imagine how excited Washington gets over the Opera, for its only comes once a year and then for only three days. Society has talked about it for months and now that it will be here next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, the city's air is simply charged with music.

For Dad and Son—and Senator and Mrs. LaFollette Jr., if they get back from Florida in time—there is the opening baseball game next Tuesday.

And most exciting for everyone—even Cousin Willie—are the two visits of Royalty with a capital "R". Prince and Princess Takamatsu of Japan, brother and sister-in-law of the Japanese Emperor, arrive on April 15, and the King and Queen of Siam on April 23.

Honestly, the excitement! My smelling salts, Emma! Intrude!

Easter Monday—Army Day too. Incidentally, with General MacArthur broadcasting the "Purpose of Army Day" and cadets and bands parading in review—was a dismal failure as far as the children who wanted to roll their bright eggs were concerned. A more forlorn group than the few brave, bedraggled, wet children slipping about on the White House lawn would be hard to find.

The youngsters of the Schafer family of Milwaukee, on the other hand, had a grand time, safe and warm and happy inside the White House at the party for the three little Hoovers.

April Wedding Month
April seems to be rivaling June as a wedding month, and Easter brides are very fashionable.

OPEN BIDS WEDNESDAY ON HIGHWAY 55 PROJECT

Bids will be opened Wednesday morning at the division state highway office at Green Bay on five road improvement projects planned for the district during this season. Among the five jobs is the paving of Highway 55 in Calumet and Outagamie-co. There is 2.757 miles in Calumet-co from Sherwood to the north county line and 1.524 miles in Outagamie-co from Kaukauna to the south county line. This project is being bid on as one project.

Other projects on which bids will be taken are in Brown, Shawano and Kewaunee-co.

Excavation of 55,337 cubic yards of dirt is included in the Highway 55 project.

At Greystown, in the jungles of Nicaragua, the annual rainfall is about 300 inches, making it the wettest spot in the Americas.

come to press at the Government Printing Office.
A large attendance is expected at the George Washington summer school—$9,000 teachers being expected—and Professor Fred A. Ogg of the political science department at the University of Wisconsin will give a course in comparative government. Professor Ragatz will teach in the Johns Hopkins summer school in Baltimore.

Dr. Delos O. Kinsman, formerly of Appleton, spoke on Russia, before a meeting of the principals of the Friends Schools throughout the east on Friday. It was a dinner meeting.

Mrs. Kinsman was hostess at a luncheon Thursday at the American Association of University Women.

Dr. William S. Notz, formerly of Watertown, was a member of the floor committee at the Flanders Field Unit of the American Women's Legion annual ball and bridge party at the Marine barracks Friday.

Another Veterans affair during the Easter week, was the annual dance and card party of the veterans' bureau Thursday evening.

Miss Katherine Lenroot, formerly of Superior, left Washington Thursday on a business trip to New York for the Children's Bureau, of which she is Assistant Chief.

Mr. and Mrs. John Henry Dwight, formerly of Racine, and Mrs. George Barnett were among the sponsors for the Dixie Ball held at the New Willard Hotel Tuesday.

Mrs. Rosenkrans of Wisconsin, mother of Mrs. Madge Jones a member of the Col. John Donelson Chapter of the D. A. R., was a guest at a dinner given by this chapter last week.

Mrs. Arthur MacArthur, mother of General Douglas MacArthur, was one of the guests at a luncheon given by Mrs. Parker West in honor of Mrs. Patrick J. Hurley, wife of the Secretary of War, Mrs. William DeWitt Mitchell, wife of the Attorney General and Mrs. Arthur Hyde, wife of the Secretary of Agriculture.

Major General Samuel Hof of Bos-cobel was one of the guests at a dinner given by Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Loesch in honor of the Secretary of the Interior and Mrs. Ray Lyman Wilbur Tuesday.

And with Thomas Jefferson's birthday on Monday, the 13th, I should really spell out my middle name!

Few Clubs In Fox River Valley League Settled On 1931 Lineup

LEFTY BEHR TO AGAIN PITCH FOR APPLETON

Fords, Rapids Will Stick to 1930 Squads, Reports Indicate

BY GORDON R. MCINTYRE

ANOTHER month will see the opening of the Fox River Valley Baseball league season for 1931 but just now the situation in most camps is about as unsettled as a South American revolt. Six clubs will make up the league again this summer, Shawano being the only strange outfit; the Indians replaced Menasha.

Because we live in Appleton we shall discuss the situation here first. Len Smith will again manage the club and Lefty Art Behr has promised to do the hurling. Smith batted the local aggregation last season and it had a very successful season; Behr did the hurling last year and he lost but one game in seven, a little trick that he probably will improve upon if he stays around during the entire summer.

Murphy to Catch

Leo Murphy again will be on the receiving end of the batter's bat and with his ability behind the plate and his war club that particular position is very well filled. "Baldy Egger" is the apparent choice for first sacker. The youngster looked good last season fielding like a veteran and crashing through with some hefty wallops when at bat.

Sonny Tomorrow apparently will again cavort at second base. Tomorrow is the league's Babe Ruth and has hopes of bettering his home run record of last season. His work around second base in 1930 was the best ever and there is no reason to believe that he can't repeat.

There'll be a new face at shortstop, that's certain. Mulry, who cavorted at the short field last year has been reclaimed by Marty Lamers at Kaukauna so Manager Smith has gone out and picked up George Weisberger from Menasha. Weisberger will be a real addition to the Fords for he is an excellent fielder and batter.

Third base remains a question. A Irishman by the name of Pat Kelly now is seeking the berth and Cully Schultz of last year's team also may report one of these days. Kelly has played in the Utah-Idaho league and in the Arizona State league. He was out at practice Sunday but because of the high wind was unable to get in any infield workouts. Schultz' ability around the red light station and his work with the stick is known to the fans.

Vets In Outfield

In the outfield Manager Smith probably will work at center. Arnie Hillman should be ready for duty in left. Dave Grove is right and ready to take the mound. If necessary, Van Wyck also will be with the squad again this season and ready for outfield duty. Several other boys also will be trying out for positions during the next week of ten days so that none of the men really have clinched positions. The Fords will practice again Tuesday evening and Thursday. A practice game or two is being sought.

At Kimberly a clash with Clarence Pocaan Sunday revealed the situation very unsettled. Pocaan may boss the Papermakers and then again he may return to pitch for Racine in the State league. "Poke" was quite a favorite with the Belle city fans last year and they'd like to get him back. His status won't be settled for another week or ten days.

Kimberly May Play

While at Kimberly Pocaan has promised to look around for some ball talent. He is trying to get Joe Muench to come to the Village along with Jerry Powell, both are members of last year's Menasha team. Muench may run the Kimberly team on the diamond if Pocaan does not stay. He is a veteran performer and will play second base. Powell can play most any position and makes himself a handy addition to the club.

A few veterans of the 1930 Papermaker team were on hand Sunday. Among them was Charlie Skall, first baseman, Butch Thein, outfielder and Harvey Hartles, catcher. George Vanderloop, outfielder and pitcher, and the Verstegen boys, Chip a second baseman and Bobbie, a third baseman. Lefty Ritten, a pitcher who performed with Appleton a while last year, also is on the Kimberly squad.

New faces on the Kimberly diamond were Einar "Hans" Tangen, second baseman who played with the championship Wisconsin Rapids team last year and who will play with the Papermakers if arrangements can be completed. Another new face was Rod Ashman, catcher, from Appleton. Ashman is a real backstop if he chooses to play serious ball and settles down to the business at hand. A third stranger also was a catcher, Wildenberg, former Wrightstown receiver.

Breezing into the Kaukauna baseball park Sunday afternoon we saw a familiar looking, bandy legged individual scooping the ball out of the dust like a youngster and it revealed itself to none other than Marty Lamers who will manage the Kaws this season. And incidentally it looked as if Marty will be a performer at second base if his pins hold up.

Wenzel to Catch

Shorty Wenzel will of course be back of the log for the Kaws this season and makes a veteran receiver for any pitcher the Kaws may acquire. Johnny Phillips dashed around third base Sunday with Mullen at short indicating Lamers has at least an infield. A couple youngsters were changing off at first base, McGee of Kaukauna and a lanky chap named Walter Brey, Shawwood.

In the outfield the candidates are the veteran Len Smith who probably will play when he feels

BRUSHING UP SPORTS... By Laufer

FRED MARBERRY almost undid his great work of 1924 in the final series with St. Louis late in September. After a wild slugfest, Washington went into the last half of the ninth, leading 15-14. Victory would practically cinch the pennant. Marberry, as relief pitcher, allowed St. Louis to fill the bases with one out. In such a crisis the team in the field hopes the ball will be hit to the pitcher. That makes a perfect double play setting. The batter obliged by hitting sharply to Marberry, who had a cinch double play by merely tossing the ball to the catcher. Instead, he became flustered, started to throw to first, then changed his mind and heaved the ball to second, with no one covering. The ball rolled into center field, and two runs, enough to beat Washington, crossed the plate. This boner for a time threatened to cost the Nats a pennant.

Still Playing Baseball On The First Diamond

COOPERSTOWN, N. Y., (AP)—Ninety-two years ago baseball had its inception in this town where the "cradle" of the game still is being used.

Abner Doubleday of Green's Select school, Cooperstown, made the first diagram of a baseball diamond, drawing a stick through the dust to indicate what sports writers have come to call the "paths" and to show the players' positions.

With a pencil, he then made notes on rules for the game, which he named "baseball." Abner Graves, one of the youths who took part in the game under Doubleday's direction, lived to tell this to an official commission appointed to study the origin of the game in 1917.

The first diamond now is known as Doubleday field. All local games are played there. The village owns the property and uses part of it as a playground.

Not until seven years after Doubleday drew his outline was the first game played between rival teams, for a prize. That contest took place at Hoboken, N. J., June 19, 1846, with the "New York nine" playing the Knickerbocker, which had introduced the game to New York City in the previous year. The "prize" was a dinner. The "New York Nine" was a dinner. The "New York Nine" was a dinner.

Abner Doubleday apparently hardly regarded the outlining of the first baseball diamond as an episode in his life. He subsequently was graduated from West Point and entered regular army service. As a captain of artillery, he sighted the first gun fired by the union forces during the Fort Sumter fighting at the outbreak of the Civil war. Later, as a major general, he was in command of the Union army at the close of the first day's fighting at the battle of Gettysburg. He died at Mendham, N. J., in 1933.

Abner Graves, Doubleday's biographer as regards the incident of the first ball field, was a fellow student at Green's Select School and became a mining engineer at Denver, Colo. It was his description of Doubleday's diamond that first led the official commission to consider Cooperstown as the cradle of the National game.

New York—Paul Berlenbach, former world light heavyweight champion, stopped Billy Henderson, New York (U); Herman Heller, Germany, knocked out Lou (Tiger) Flowers, New York (S).

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

TRAVIS JACKSON blames night baseball in San Antonio for the kink he has been suffering in his right arm. When the Giants were in Memphis, some of the boys went to a gymnasium on a rainy day, to keep in trim by a little exercise... you can imagine the astonishment of John J. McGraw... Jack Quinn pitched in six different leagues in one season 23 years ago... In order the teams were: Toledo, Denver, Atlanta, Macon, Pottsville and Richmond... after he arrived in Richmond he decided he wanted to settle down, so he won 16 straight games.

WANT FRATERNAL GROUPS TO ENTER SOFTBALL LEAGUE

Industrial Loops Adopt Two New Rules on Player Eligibility

Organization of a fraternal softball league in Appleton will be undertaken by Arthur C. Denney, summer play director, if two or four more teams can be found to enter the loop. Announcement of the plan was made Tuesday morning after a meeting Monday at which four fraternal teams made application to enter the Industrial softball league.

Fraternal teams which have indicated they would like to compete in a softball loop are the Knights of Columbus, DeMolay, Zion Lutheran Brotherhood, and the Foresters. If two or four more teams can be secured from fraternal groups, Coach Denney announced he would organize the league so that it might get started next month. Teams wanting to enter the loop should get in touch with Denney immediately.

The other outgrowth of the meeting of Denney and managers of the American and National soft ball leagues last night was adoption of two new eligibility rules. One is that members of teams must be employed by a company three weeks before they are eligible to play; the other is that high school and college players will not be allowed among the three outside men each team is allowed.

"We do not intend to bar the college and high school players," Coach Denney said, "rather we want them to enter in the playground leagues. The Industrial leagues are for bona fide employees of the various companies entered and are not for high school and college athletes. The playground leagues will take care of these boys."

The Industrial leagues will get started the first week in May with the National leagues playing at Pierce park and the American leagues at Roosevelt school. The American leagues will play Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings this year.

Fox Theatre and Appleton Wire Works are entering teams this summer. It is said they will take the place of the Pettibone-Peabody company team and probably the Valley Iron Works.

The American leagues met after the joint meeting and named Hilbert Weller, president; Bill Hobbins, vice president and J. Engel, treasurer.

ORANGE AND VIKING TRACK TEAMS WORK

H. S. and College Squads Begin Serious Trials on Outdoor Track

With both high school and college thin clads pounding the cinders, trying to get over bamboo poles and tossing weights, the outdoor track season in Appleton was started with a vengeance last night at George A. Whitling Athletic field.

Coach Arthur C. Denney of Lawrence had his varsity track men out early in the afternoon sending them through starts and a few time j-unts. The freshmen also were out under direction of Coach Einar Tangen and Coach Denney.

Monday marked the first trip of the high school squad to Whitling field and when Coach Joseph Shields got his 50 or 60 odd youngsters rounded up athletes cluttered the track and football field. Shields now will start hard work with his proteges, previous drills being confined almost entirely to theory of the various events.

Both the Orange and the Viking squads will get their first competitive meets late this month.

TWO APPLETON BOYS ON BADGER GOLF SQUAD

William Lyons and Frank Murphy, Appleton, are members of the University of Wisconsin golf squad now preparing for four dual meets and the Western conference tournament next month. George Lewis of the university is handling the squad which boasts only two veterans. The squad has started work on Monona course and will transfer to Maple Bluff when the final cut to eight men is made.

Association Race Opens With Brews At Columbus

CHICAGO (AP)—Louisville Colons, the last club to win two American Association championships in a row, today attacked the task of accomplishing the feat again. Under Joe McCarthy, and Bill Meyer, Louisville won the titles in 1925 and 1926, but no team has been able to repeat since. The Kansas City Blues, victors in 1929 and strong favorites to repeat last season, were unable to beat the growing Jinx, and never figured in the championship race, finishing fifth.

The Colons, however, in spite of the loss of two stars, Fred Simon and Phil Welnert, are regarded as a great possibility to repeat this season.

Louisville opened at home today with Minneapolis, which landed third last season, as its opponent. Johnny Marcum, the Colons' young all-around star, was Manager Allan Sothoron's pitching choice, while the veteran Rube Benton was down to work for the Millers. Fair weather was indicated and an inaugural crowd of 15,000 was expected to watch the ceremony.

Salts Are Strong

St. Paul, runnerup to Louisville by two and one-half games last season, was at Indianapolis for the opening. The Saints were rated as the Colons' most serious competition—strong enough to win the title with improved pitching. Manager Albert Leffield had nominated Huick Betts to pitch for the Saints, while Johnny Corriden had his veteran Bill Burwell, ready for the task.

The Indians appear improved over the last place club of last season, but not strong enough to go places in a big way. Then thousand spectators were expected.

At Columbus, once called the Senators, but now named the Red Birds since the club was added to the St. Louis Cardinal system, faced Milwaukee. Columbus, which finished sixth, four and one-half games ahead of the Brewers in 1930, appear in need of a lot of help, while Milwaukee apparently is greatly strengthened. Americanu Poll, former Louisville and St. Paul right-hander was nominated by Marty Berghammer to pitch for the Brewers, with Ken Ash or Archie Campbell as the Columbus selection. The advance crowd estimate was 12,000.

Kansas City faced Toledo at Toledo, with both clubs hoping for better things than last season. The Mud Hens finished third a year ago, and with almost the same material figured to be in the race. Manager Casey Stengel expected to start Carl Mays against the Blues, with Sanders working for Kansas City, before around 7,000 spectators.

25 GRIDDERS REPORT AT FIRST VIKI DRILL

New Lawrence Football Coach to Conduct Drills for One Week

A squad of about 25 men reported to Coach Percy O. Clapp, new Lawrence football coach, at the first Viking drill of the spring season yesterday. Among the men was Capt. Norbert Pfefferle, Hessler, end, Christensen, guard, Coffey, end, Ryan, halfback, Lund, halfback, and a half dozen or more boys who were members of last year's squad.

The squad last night appeared to be all backfield candidates and not more than 10 linemen. Coach Clapp sent the linemen through a few minutes of blocking and had the backs tossing forward passes.

Invitation to attend drills was extended to about 50 men. More are expected out Tuesday and the remainder probably will not report because of track activities. Coach Clapp will be away a week and then return to Milwaukee state teachers college to handle the pees' track squad.

SEEK 6TH TEAM FOR LITTLE FOX LEAGUE

Loop Officers Have Hopes of Interesting New Seymour Ball Club

With four of the old guard again in the ranks and with one new entry, officials of the Little Fox Baseball league are seeking a sixth team for the loop. Sherwood is the new member. Menasha was to have made the sixth club but The Falcons withdrew to enter the Winnebago loop. Wrightstown is another one of last year's clubs that has gone elsewhere.

Any team in the vicinity of Appleton is invited to get in touch with league officials if it wishes to play league ball. The next league meeting will be held at 7:30 Friday evening at the Y. M. C. A.

League bosses had hopes of securing Dale for the league but the villagers' joined the Winnebago loop. Effort now will be made to get the newly organized Seymour team to enter.

Short Sports

How About Horse Power?

Running horses with jockeys in the saddle move along over the track at a rate of almost 40 miles an hour.

Reds Made Two Triple Plays

Of the seven triple plays executed in the major leagues during 1930 the Cincinnati Reds were responsible for two. The Phils, Tigers, Red Sox, Robins and Senators made one each.

Golf Extremes

Lake Worth in Florida was pumped dry to make possible the construction of a 110-acre golf course, while at Cloudercroft, in New Mexico, a links has been built 9,000 feet above sea level.

Rare Pitching Among Vets

At the age of 42, Chick Bender, one-time Athletics' pitching star won 29 games and lost only two to the Richmond club in the old Virginia league.

Cincinnati—Freddie Miller, Cincinnati, outpunted Tommy Paul, Buffalo (10).

STRANGLER LEWIS BEATS DON GEORGE TO REGAIN CROWN

West Coast Fighter Won Title Claim by Beating Gus Sonnenberg

LOS ANGELES, (AP)—For the fourth time in a decade Ed (Strangler) Lewis today assumed the role of claimant of the heavyweight wrestling championship of the world.

Considered by many in recent years to be too decrepit to return to the throne of grapplers as recognized in California and several other states, Lewis last night terminated Ed (Don) George's reign which had lasted four months, defeating the former university athlete in straight falls.

The 39 year old veteran crushed his 29 year old opponent into submission with a series of headlocks in the first session, and then made short work of this former national amateur champion to pin his shoulders to the mat for the deciding fall.

And strangely, the 12,000 customers who shivered through the long first period at Wrigley field, roared approval for the grappler who had been greeted with boos as he entered the ring.

Six headlocks in a row terminated the first session after one hour 10 minutes 6 seconds of spectacular showmanship. George appeared to be out cold, and an easy victim for the second flop, brought about by a hammerlock in 7 minutes 42 seconds.

George became a title claimant by throwing Sonnenberg here last December. Lewis first laid claim to the championship in 1920. He reappeared in 1922, and in 1928. He has long been considered the leading member of the Sandow grunt and grimace troupe. Jim Londos is the recognized titleholder of the other clan.

In the third round last night, Joe Savoldi of Notre Dame grid fame, made short work of Myron Cox, Venice, Cal., life guard with a body slam in 9 minutes, 30 seconds. Savoldi weighed 205 and Cox, 210.

PRESSMEN, GUARDS IN SOFTBALL GAME

Co. D, 127th Infantry, softball team will play its first game of the 1931 season at 5:30 Friday evening when it meets the Tuttle Press company team at Pierce park. The Guardsmen held their first workout Sunday morning. The team competed in the National league last year, the Tuttle Press in the American.

JACK, ESTELLE IN SPARRING MATCH ON DIVORCE QUESTION

Miss Taylor Says Former Champion Has No Grounds for Suit

LOS ANGELES — (P) — The prospects of seeing Jack Dempsey in another "battle of the century"—this time with his wife as opponent and the divorce court as the arena—were dimmed slightly today by an exchange of statements in which they almost called off the fight.

To Jack's statement that he had gone to Reno, Nev., to get a divorce because his wife, Estelle Taylor of the movies, had proclaimed a decision to follow her career and had told him to "get out," the actress replied yesterday that she had not known of any plans for a divorce and that she would fight the case if it materialized.

Asserting the former heavyweight boxing champion had "no grounds for divorce," Miss Taylor denied today they had lived apart for nearly two years and said she had been maintaining the Dempsey home in Los Angeles. Dempsey's original statement said Miss Taylor had forsaken domestic life for her career.

"It has been I who kept this home," she said. "I am the one who furnished it and kept it for him to leave and return whenever he chose. I am the one who stayed at home."

However, Miss Taylor conferred with her lawyer regarding the possibility of instituting divorce proceedings in her behalf in Los Angeles. She announced the filing of any action here would be held in abeyance pending receipt of "definite word" as to Jack's intentions.

Miss Taylor's statement led Dempsey to comment in Reno that if she had changed her mind and is willing to give up her career as an actress and become a real "home maker," a divorce might be avoided.

Shown dispatches saying the actress would fight any divorce action he should file there, the former pugilist said his wife "must have changed her mind." He reiterated that she had "forced the present situation" upon him.

"PIE PLANT PETE" WITH WLS FROLIC

Well Known Radio Entertainer to Show Here at Lion's Benefit

"Pie Plant Pete," one of those famous characters who often is heard over radio and seldom seen, will be in Appleton Friday evening as a member of the WLS Barn Dance Frolic which will show at Lawrence Memorial chapel under auspices of the Lions' club.

The concert and vaudeville program is planned to raise money for a blind aid program the Lions contemplate. They plan to centralize buying of supplies for blind persons who have learned a trade, and sell the finished products so that blind persons amply receive a better return.

Radio fans will recall "Pie Plant Pete" as an artist with the guitar, singer of cowboy and mountain songs, and the person who puts a lot of pep into WLS program, especially the barn dance frolic on Saturday evenings and the dinnerbell programs.

Pete lived on an Illinois farm before he came to the Prairie Farmer station at Chicago. He was feature entertainer with the WLS Show Boat and has toured many theatre circuits. His old fashioned heartiness and the quaint way in which he sings and plays old fashioned ballads and folk songs of years ago present a distinctly different appeal from the usual up-to-date jazz and modern music.

Friday night's program is expected to be the cleverest vaudeville program ever staged in Appleton. The program will attract all listeners of station WLS, and especially the rural radio fans. Seats are on sale at Bell's drug store, 400 being reserved. The remainder of the 1,000 or more seats at the chapel will be general admission seats.

States' Legislatures Pass More Than 14,000 New Laws

BY MORRIS C. WATSON

New York — (AP) — American legislators felt "there ought to be a law" some 50,000 times this year and translated that feeling into more than 14,000 new statutes.

The number adds to the variously estimated 2,000,000 to 10,000,000 laws which have been enacted since the United States came into being.

The national congress accounted for 1,824 of this year's crop of laws, while legislators of 43 states to date have passed more than 12,000 out of 48,403 bills introduced. The number may be swelled as some legislative sessions still are in progress.

North Carolina, just finishing the longest legislative session of its history, is expected to write 825 new laws into its books.

Since North Carolinians need to heed only the laws of their own state and those of the federal government they will have but 2,349 new guide posts for their conduct.

Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi and Virginia held no legislative sessions this year. Florida has just commenced its biennial lawmaking and forecasting of the output isn't being done.

The remainder of the states have either just adjourned their legislative sessions or expect to do so within a few days.

Many of the laws are relatively unimportant to the citizenry at large. Maryland, for instance, must pass a law to raise the pay of a dog-catcher. The free state approved 400 new acts out of 954 proposed.

New York solons poured the greatest number of bills into their law-making progress—1,265 in all—and approved nearly 1,200.

California has 2,350 bills under consideration, 106 so far approved. Minnesota, considering 2,600, is expected to adopt around 400. Illinois expects a higher ratio, or 600 new laws out of 1,300 bills introduced. Wisconsin anticipates the same number out of 1,500 proposed. Pennsylvania has 2,152 proposed, 63 so far adopted.

Maine adopted 560 out of a proposed 2,077; Connecticut may approve 800 of 1,573 bills; Oregon considered 805; approved 403.

Alabama adopted 125 new laws, Arizona 105, Arkansas 334, Colorado, 150, Delaware 238, Idaho 225, Indiana 180, Iowa 116, Kansas 309, Nevada 255, New Mexico 163, North Dakota 314, Ohio 161, South Dakota 269, Tennessee 318, Utah 78, Vermont 243, Washington 142, West Virginia 111, Wyoming 138, and Montana 220.

Georgia tags with 13 new laws out of 89 proposed in a special session.

Estimates for some of the states whose legislatures are still in session are Massachusetts 225, Michigan 300, Missouri 300, Nebraska 200, New Hampshire 250, New Jersey 200, Oklahoma 125, Rhode Island 150, South Carolina 450, Texas 230.

STATE TO OBSERVE CHILD HEALTH DAY

Dr. Charlotte Calvert, Madison, Is Chairman of Wisconsin Group

BY RUBY A. BLACK (Post-Crescent Washington Bureau)

Washington—Dr. Charlotte Calvert of the state board of health at Madison is Wisconsin's state chairman for this year's May day celebration of Child Health day, recently proclaimed by President Hoover.

Her committee will be hard at work until May 1, carrying out the hopes, desires, and plans of the American Child Health association in achieving its purpose "To fulfill the aims of President Hoover's White House conference on Child Health and Protection as expressed in the Children's Charter and intended for the benefit of every child regardless of race or color or situation wherever he may live under the protection of the American flag."

Mr. Calvert is the director of the bureau of maternity and child hygiene of the Badger state's board of health.

In December, 1930, the National Child Health day committee of the conference of state and provincial health authorities of North America decided to base its 1931 National Child Health day on the findings of the white house conference, and chose "Community Responsibility and Cooperation for Child Health and Protection" as the keynote of the conference.

For a number of years, governors of most of the states have issued proclamations on May Day-National Child Health day. The official boards of health, education and welfare, the agricultural extension service, and many state-wide groups of men and women have cooperated with state committees until they have gradually become state organizations with year-round programs as well as May Day celebrations.

The Children's Charter mentioned in the organization's purpose, is the final version of the 19 recommendations of the White House Conference including spiritual and moral training, a home, a school and education for normal children, for handicapped children, and for wayward children.

One of the objects of the May Day celebration is to enlist the co-operation of governors in each state to call a Conference on Child Health and Protection as a "follow-up" of the White House Conference, preferably at some time near May Day.

President Hoover has been president of the American Child Health Association since 1923.

CREAMERIES TO HAVE UNIFORM REPORT PLAN

Madison—(P)—To curb unfair competition, all creameries must submit a uniform statement of operating costs and expenses to the state department of agriculture and markets once each month. Commissioner Charles Hill announced today.

The order followed an investigation into competition between cooperative creameries. One creamery, the investigation revealed, bought buttermilk and sold the product in large batches at an increased cost of two cents a pound for patrons.

The new order will permit the department to have information immediately available in cases where there are complaints of unfair competition. Commissioner Hill said. "While auditors from the department have investigated numerous complaints, in practically all cases the difference in price paid by creameries was due to local conditions or management."

XCITEMENT RAN HIGH

... on March 17 ... at the start of the elaborate lubrication study conducted by the Contest Board of the A. A. A. on the Indianapolis Speedway. Read the dramatic details of this tremendous task

NOTHING approaching this lubrication study in size and scope had ever before been attempted. Here were 13 latest model cars of prominent makes ready to start on a series of tests covering thousands of miles—tests that would shed new light on questions concerning dilution, consumption, carbon and wear. More than 4 weeks of intensive work lay ahead for the relays of drivers that would whirl these cars around the Indianapolis Speedway. Months of preparation had worked up to this climax. Drivers waited at their wheels for the word to go. Excitement ran high.

Accuracy in the results obtained is assured. The tests were conducted by the Contest Board of the American Automobile Association. Its official observers were present every minute. The results when compiled will be certified by that unbiased organization.

Early in May, cars used in this test will start on individual tours. They will visit automobile dealers from Michigan to Montana to deliver the certified results and to allow inspection. At the same time they will be gathering lubrication data on highways and city streets, under the exact conditions your car faces. Watch for these cars.

It is by such research methods that this company is able to provide you always with motor oil that meets exactly the lubrication requirements of your engine.

MANAWA YOUTH, HIT BY TRUCK, IN HOSPITAL

Boy of 5 Steps Off Curb in Front of Heavy Car

New London—Kenneth Wright, 5-year-old son of the Rev. and Mrs. Friedrich W. Wright of Manawa was seriously injured early Saturday evening when he stepped into the path of a truck driven by an employee of the Boileau trucking concern at Manawa. The accident occurred in front of the Wright residence. The driver saw the boy step down from the curb and stop and he sounded his horn. The child seemingly did not heed the driver and was struck in the head by the truck. The driver took the child to the office of Dr. Kenneth Ervine nearby, and later to the Wright home. The child now is in the Community hospital with a fractured skull.

Other new patients at the hospital include Mrs. Albert Roloff who underwent an operation on Monday, Robert Hamelster, 9, of Clintonville who was brought in on Monday for an emergency operation, Edward Nedrick, of this city also recovering after an operation.

VETS SHOULD ASK ABOUT LATE LOANS

Delay May Be Caused by Misplaced Letters at Bureau Office

Veterans of the world war who have made application for loans on their adjusted compensation certificates and who have received no word from the veterans bureau at Milwaukee, or have not received the money, should inquire into the matter, according to officers of the bureau.

The regional office is working night and day to handle claims and because of the work involved errors which result in failure of veterans to receive money are apt to occur. A total of 34,000 applications for loans were made through the Milwaukee office and about 6,900 still are pending. The claims are being handled at the rate of about 700 a day.

Most delay in receiving money concerns identification of veterans. A case from Appleton which is typical of many cases in which delay occurs was reported here recently. The veterans made application for a loan and was informed later that identification would be necessary. He forwarded identification and service connection and still received no reply and no money.

Finally he resorted to a trip to Milwaukee, applied at the bureau office and presented his claim. It then developed the identification letter had been filed away in one place and the application for a loan in another so the application was not complete and probably never would have been had he not made personal application at the bureau.

GIVE INFORMATION ON FRUIT GROWING IDEAS

Madison — (AP) — Tags carrying information concerning methods of growing sound fruit will accompany fruit trees distributed by Wisconsin nurserymen under an arrangement worked out by E. L. Chambers, state entomologist of the state department of agriculture and markets. It was announced here today.

The plan was evolved in an attempt to get information to amateur fruit growers as well as owners of farm orchards in the state. Control of insect pests and plant diseases is described on each tag.

Your Birthday

"ARIES"

If April 15th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 1 p. m. to 4 p. m. and from 7:15 p. m. to 9:30 p. m. The danger hours are from 9:30 a. m. to 11 a. m., from 4:30 p. m. to 5:45 p. m., and from 9:30 p. m. to 10:30 p. m.

The astrological indications of April 15th are particularly propitious for new enterprises, and for research work. They reveal buoyancy of spirit and continuity of effort; many unexpected, but happy, results may be safely anticipated. Marriages solemnized on this date will be productive of much happiness.

Children born on this April 15th will be truthful, self-confident, and never impatient. They will easily acquire the habit of punctuality and the custom of courtesy. Domestic in their tastes, they will have many interests outside of the home, and their horoscope speaks for their merited success and happiness.

Born on April 15th, you are broadminded, and are more liable to judge actions by the original intention, rather than by the method of execution. You take wide views, and do not permit yourself to be led astray by little details which often obscure the main issue, rather than contribute to its "denouement." You are destined to achieve your ambition—whatever it may be—unless you allow yourself to be deflected by a foolish infatuation—and this is, for you, a real danger.

You are a good organizer, and never shirk responsibility. You are considerable of others, when they work with you, and not against you. Ineptitude can be overlooked; disloyalty, never. You are a good judge, although not a votary, of art. You like, too, to dabble in problems of life that are usually classified as abstruse. Although not an enthusiastic "fan," you take a keen interest in sports and outdoor recreation.

Your disposition is an amorous one. You are destined to have many love affairs. These, however, will be your apprenticeship and when you finally "settle down" it will only be with the one who will satisfy your longings for steadfast and true companionship. Your love for children is fully reciprocated by them.

Successful People Born April 15th:

- 1—John Lothrop Motley — Historian and diplomat.
- 2—Joseph E. Brown — A governor of Georgia.
- 3—William B. Parsons — Chief engineer of New York subway.
- 4—Bliss Carman — Poet and author.
- 5—Abbott F. Graves — Artist.

6—Henry James Jr. — Novelist and critic. (Copyright, 1931, by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

URGENT PRECAUTIONARY MEASURES ON MOTHS

Madison — (AP) — Before storing winter clothes for the summer, proper precautionary measures should be taken against moths, E. L. Chambers, state entomologist of the department of agriculture and markets said today.

"Damage by moths is caused by the larvae or caterpillars of the insects, not by the winged moths," he said. "Whenever clothes moths are seen flying in the house it is important to take prompt measures to discover and remove the source of the infestation before it has an opportunity to spread."

Subjecting of clothes to sunlight is an effective means of ridding garments of larvae, according to Mr. Chambers.

Fruit juices, milk products and beverage extracts are being made in powdered form with an atomizer by a Danish concern.

By Percival Christopher Wren Author of MYSTERIOUS WAYE

SYNOPSIS: When John Waye St. Clair's daughter, Rosemary, dies, suddenly uttering the name of a man she calls Jimmy, her father devotes his life to vengeance against her kidnappers. After her death, following her release in exchange for the St. Clair family diamonds, St. Clair becomes a denizen of the underworld, first making it appear that he has suicided and then losing his identity. From a confident of crooks known as "Uncle," who has helped him to escape a prison term he did not deserve, Waye hopes to learn about the abductors of his daughter. Assisting him are a clever detective pair, Mr. and Mrs. Williams H. William, who in that part of the story relating to the nursing home are Colonel Campbell and Miss Skinner.

Chapter 37
A CUE FROM "UNCLE"
PATIENTLY and gradually, the William couple made headway with Uncle and his friends, until at length they were accepted without question as a gang consisting of one wise guy and a smart Jane, of the exclusive aristocracy of crookdom, who took no one into their confidence and made a very great deal of money.
Long before we got even a clew that was more than a mere suspicion as to the identity of the gang we were pursuing, I had attained the honor of meeting all the most distinguished denizens of the underworld.
Rising to higher levels, we also made the useful acquaintance of policemen, lawyers and politicians, and I came to know such eminent citizens as Police Chief Morgan A. Hollis, Attorney O'Connell, Hinky Dink Henna, and Bathhouse John Conklin.
We worked Chicago chiefly by reason of our hopes founded on the encyclopaedic knowledge of Uncle, but we spent weary weeks and months in New York, San Francisco and other cities, which the web of our clews enmeshed.
On one occasion, we all set off to Buenos Ayres, and thence to Rio de Janeiro, on the trail of a gang of white-slavers known to run kidnapping-for-ransom as a side line.
It was in the lovely city of Rio de Janeiro that William made the acquaintance of the individual who was unconsciously to lead us to success.

This was a brilliantly clever and unscrupulous doctor, a Portuguese named Manoel Machado, whose scoundrelly trade was dope-peddling on a large scale and the removal, by untraceable means, of his clients' inconvenient friends or enemies, highly insured relatives, or aged and wealthy testators.
Disappearing from Rio, this man fled to Chicago, where he went to earth and, in due course, appeared at Uncle's.
And Uncle, one evening, perfectly sober, but as nearly drunk as it was possible for Uncle to become, was in expansive and reminiscent mood.
Even so, as well we knew, sharp question would have received short answer. As usual, when Uncle was alone with us three crooks of high-grade, William led and gently held the conversation.
"We talked of ships and sealings wax and cabbages and kings (of crime)—particularly of the latter. Anon Uncle made allusion to the brilliance and success of one, Limes Simon, and English doctor, and his gang."
"Tawny deeply, and scratching his head idly, William observed: "I haven't heard of that outfit for a long time." (We knew the name, of course.)
"No, and you ain't like to," smiled Uncle.
"Restin' up?" murmured William.
"Columbia Jail, Ohio, two of them. Doc Simon and Chink Dorson. Five-spot stretch," said Uncle. "Spides Schiltz only took one year... But I guess Doc Limey'll work his ticket. He's got a pull and he's got the dough."
Mrs. Williams H. William drew a mighty blow at a venture.
"Tell you a thing always got me guessin', Uncle," she observed, "and that's whether Soapy Simon got that big sparkler cut up, or sold it whole."
"What the St. Clair shiner, The Unsetting Sun?" mused Uncle.
I held my breath in hope.
"Ah! I always said Limey Doc Simon overreached himself, that time," continued Uncle. "I told him he'd brought a white elephant when he showed it me. Who'd buy the thing, and no questions asked? Who'd cut it up and no questions asked? Very pleased with himself, he was—and so was Spider Schiltz and Chink Dorson. Oh, we'll sell it to some millionaire or Rajah bye-and-bye, when the hand-cuffs over," says English Doc Simon, in his big way.... "You won't," says I, "and you won't try." "Well, we'll put it in cold storage a bit, and see who's right, Uncle," says Simon, and I was never quite sure whether they didn't get themselves jailed for an alibi and a safe hide-up."
I cannot speak for myself, but I can testify that the acting of William H. William and his wife was as fine as anything ever done on the stage.
"The closest of observers would have sworn that they were a thoroughly bored pair of idle gossipers, talking, and wholly indifferent to the subject of conversation."
I scarcely breathed, and for the want of better disguise for my excitement, feigned slumber.
"Well, Uncle," yawned William. "They ought to be listened to, you, for when you talk you certainly say something."
"Yes, they was three bright boys," said Uncle and Gunman Gryde, Young Jimmy, you know, was real unhealthy for all their enemies."
"Let's see, Gunman Gryde.... Didn't he shoot up the Fratelli family, that time?" murmured William.
"Yep. Did you know he's Doc Simon's son?.... And Frisco Fanny's?"
"Sure," lied William. "Bad boy, Young Jimmy."
"Be another Fosmano if he don't get put on the spot first," observed Uncle, "or if he doesn't double-cross Louie the Lady."
"He is stir, too?" asked Mrs. William.
"Nope. Runnin' with the Hudson Dusters till they come out."
When he does, I guess he'll see Europe, eh? With the big sparkler in his pocket. Wonder where he cached it?" mused William as he yawned again.
"Ah!" smiled Uncle knowingly. I cannot begin to describe how I felt that night.
I was almost happy, for hope dawned in my darkened soul—even though it were but the miserable hope of vengeance on these devils who had murdered my Rosemary.

TEN PERISH AS TUNNEL BURNS; 16 ARE SAVED

Gas and Heat Hamper Rescue Workers in Chicago Tragedy

The tunnel with a lighted candle, had ignited a pile of sawdust.

Chicago — (P) — Eleven firemen and six workmen emerged alive at 9 o'clock A. M. today from the blazing sanitary district tunnel where 10 of their fellows died during the night.

Led by Division Fire Marshal Patrick Pierce, the survivors crawled unaided to the surface through the shaft that had been an avenue to death for the 10 firemen and tunnel workers trapped in lethal gas and unbearable heat.

They had saved their lives through 12 hours' imprisonment by sealing themselves in safety air chambers at one end of the new sewage disposal tunnel.

Heat that melted the rubber suit of a diver and fumes that choked and blinded the daring rescue squads had foredoomed the search of the tunnel until a new smoke-ejecting device rushed here from Kenosha, Wis., was applied to the air shaft.

Its double-barreled pipes sucked the smoke from the chamber 50 feet underground and forced compressed air down, clearing a path to safety for the entombed men. Once on the surface, they were rushed to St. Anthony hospital where 38 other firemen already were patients, suffering from injuries and the effects of gas.

The smoke ejector, the invention of Peter T. Pirsch, a Kenosha contractor who hastened to complete his first model at 3 o'clock A. M. today and sped here with his son to give the machine the baptismal test. Puffs of smoke poured from the tunnel-mouth as its pumps began functioning and fresh, cool air was driven into the flaming tube.

One Fireman Missing

One fireman, James O'Neill, was still missing, Fire Marshal Corrigan said.

It was a dramatic moment as the first little group of workmen rose to the street.

Firemen were pumping away, watching the shaft opening tensely, ready to attack any flames that reached the surface and threatened the sheds at the mouth. Suddenly the elevator bell rang. The caddy ran up and the grimy faces of the first handful appeared.

A tremendous sweat went up, and firemen and rescuers surged to the entrance of the pit. Again the cage dropped, brought up another gang, then a third time to hoist the last load.

John Yurgen, one of the tunnel workers, told of the horrible night in the underground prison. They had sought refuge in the eastern air chamber where the fire drove them back from the shaft last night. There in the little 22 feet square room they spent the night, some praying, singing at times, some even sleeping despite the stress.

Through the long hours of waiting for rescue they had been supplied constantly with fresh air pumped down from the surface, and the smoke that had seeped in at first was forced out. But toward 9 o'clock this morning the air supply failed, and the prisoners knew they must make a break for the shaft or die of suffocation behind the bulkhead.

Making ready, holding their breaths as long as they could, they pushed open the door and dashed for the shaft, now clearing of gas. They rang for the elevator cage and shot up to daylight and safety.

These survivors were certain all in their bulkheads had escaped and that none had taken refuge in the western safety chamber.

Like Mine Rescue

"More a mine rescue job than straight smoke-eating," one grinning, red-headed figure gasped as swift application of an oxygen inhalator drove out the fumes on which he choked. "Four trips down, and a man brought up each time, and then somebody had to carry me out," he continued.

"It's just like trying to find your way in a fog along a strange street at midnight with all the lights out," he explained. "Honest, that smoke's so thick I brought up a pocketful," and a few wisps curled up from an inside-out pouch in his coat.

Outside the building, which did duty as temporary morgue, hospital and church—for the sacrament was administered to nine men there by black-robed priests who served sandwiches, coffee and charged water when not busy with their duties of the dead—curious, gaping throngs swarmed over the scene of death.

Police lines were established, only to give way under the pressure of the milling thousands. The cry of "here comes another one" was sufficient to start a wave of humanity which swept aside all obstacles, sometimes going so far as to impede the efforts of the rescuers.

"She's a bad one," commented one tunnel worker who reported for duty only to find his job "gone up in smoke." He went on to explain the construction of the tunnel, which eventually will serve as a sewer. "There must be two car-loads of sawdust alone spread along the tunnel floor, and a lot of creosoted timber in the way of props, concrete forms and bulkheads. I've been in mine fires—was panned in behind a bulkhead for three days in southern Illinois but this is worse. That creosote and a lot of extra bits to the smoke."

Power Blowers Fail

Searchlights on a fire department truck picked out a glowing cloud atop the shaft as power blowers attempted to clear the tunnel of the smoke and fumes.

The smoke added into the spectators' eyes and brought out a chorus of coughs and sneezes.

Meanwhile, five firemen hastily assembled lists of the missing, both workers and firemen. "Where's Coyne," was the first question from one fireman who was fighting the inhalator squad in an effort to return to the tunnel. "Don't stop me, I've got to get Coyne—he's my partner."

"Take it easy, son, take it easy," advised a doctor, "they got him out all right."

"Pir," gasped Coyne's partner. He did not realize that Coyne had been brought out "all right," only to be taken to the Cook-co morgue.

Spontaneous combustion, the coroner thought, set off the key fire in the pile of shavings piled before a bulkhead leading into the main section of the tunnel. It apparently spread then in the 75-foot entranceway, catching up creosoted blocks and wood frames that set loose carbon monoxide gas in a few seconds.

The first tongues of smoke licked into the main tunnel section, which forms the top to the "T" shaped project, about 7 or 7:30 p. m. The slender night shift of workers kept of them began to arrive. Dazed by the acrid flames, some of the firemen fought off those who tried to help them.

Terrific heat developed in the cramped underground space. Blazing timbers fell, pinning some men. Water, emptied from above to clear the smoke when air pressure failed, added four feet deep and made it impossible to see even inches ahead in the thick, white mist.

Above, crews were at work with pick and shovel, digging down in a race to reach the tunnel and set blowers to work from far ends. Two of them succeeded, but the blanket smoke hardly lifted.

Gas masks failed, and men in diving suits, trailing air hoses connected to the shaft entrance, were ordered in. They clung to ropes nailed painfully along the tunnel sides, groping for bodies.

MILLER PROPOSES BILL TO ASSIST LIVESTOCK SALES

Hearing on Measure to Be Conducted at Madison on April 22

Madison—A bill designed to contribute to a more efficient marketing of livestock and development of cooperative livestock marketing was introduced in the Senate of Wisconsin by Senator Anton Miller of Kaukauna. The bill comes up for hearing before a joint session of the committees on agriculture of both houses of the Legislature Wednesday, April 22.

The purpose of the proposed law is to license dealers, and agents of dealers and brokers. Each dealer or broker or agent before engaging in the business of buying and selling livestock is to file an application with the Department of Agriculture and Markets. This application must state the nature of the business, and the name of the person applying for the license.

The three most important provisions of the proposed law are:

(1) It requires dealers to satisfy the department of their character, financial responsibility and good faith in engaging in the livestock business.

(2) It fixes a bond of $2,000 to protect farmers from losses due to various causes enumerated in the bill.

(3) It gives the Department of Agriculture and Markets the right to investigate upon complaints the record of dealers, brokers, firms and corporations engaged in the livestock business as a preliminary to a hearing by the department to act on such complaints. The department may decline to grant or may revoke a license when it finds that there were violations of statutes and when it is satisfied of the lack of reliability of the persons and firms involved. It has also the right to revoke the license if a dealer bought livestock from a contract member of a cooperative association.

3,500 OUT OF 5,000 CHOLERA CASES ARE FATALITIES, REPORT

Washington — (P) — Thirty-five hundred deaths out of 5,000 cases of cholera.

That was the word brought to the Red Cross convention today by Col. M. A. Delaney, executive member of the Philippine chapter, in describing the epidemic which broke out in the province of Cebu, Philippine Islands, in the spring of 1930.

The outbreak was brought under control but taxed to the limit relief facilities, which had at the time been operating to succor typhoon victims in the nearby province of Tayabas.

"This was a small epidemic," Delaney said, "compared with the great scourge of the early days of the American occupation when 168,000 died. The mortality was about 80 per cent."

Between two and three millions persons were given the cholera prophylactic in the 1930 outbreak.

The speaker, one of several on the second day's program of the convention, said the Red Cross also was doing good work in the leper colony of Gulion Island.

Miss Elizabeth Gordon Fox, executive director of the Visiting Nurse association, New Haven, Conn., said Red Cross chapters have an opportunity to extend their work by forwarding the program of the White House Child Health conference.

New York — Estelle Filbert, daughter of William J. Filbert, controller of the United States Steel corporation, would rather work than attend to society affairs. She has found she can't do both. And so she has a job in a department store. Her sister Beatrice is training to be a nurse.

HITS CONSERVATION COMMISSION FOR ITS LAND SALES STAND

Scattered Tracts Constitute "Normal School Fund Lands," Claim

Madison — (P) — Criticism of the conservation commission, particularly its chairman, for opposition to the sale of the scattered timber and lands which constitute the "normal school fund lands," was expressed by Assemblyman Paul Fuhman, Bowler, in an open letter made public yesterday.

William Mauthe, Fond du Lac, chairman of the commission, recently assailed a resolution adopted by the legislature which would give the land commission the right to dispose of normal school fund lands. The resolution was introduced by Assemblyman John Fronck, Antigo.

Conservationists in the senate attempted to rescind their action on the resolution by having it withdrawn from the assembly for further consideration but Assemblyman Fronck had the upper hand, leading the assembly against the move. A bill was subsequently introduced which would state the senate's policy to be reverse to that expressed in the resolution.

Assemblyman Fuhman, in his letter to Mr. Mauthe, charged that forest wardens and rangers have been unable to stop timber thefts, that they are transferred soon after becoming familiar with their territory, that the conservation commission apparently is opposed to replanting, that the conservation force is "extravagantly paid," and that 170 of the 365 state forests of land were trespasses.

The assemblyman also said that Louis B. Nader, campaign manager for former Gov. Fred R. Zimmerman, was kept in office as conservation director "until public protest became too hot."

"I will say at the outset," Mr. Fuhman writes, "that the rank bluster, bombast, attempts at ridicule, misquotation, and false statements in your letter, mark you as one who should enter the kindergarten on our forests and the program needed to reclothe the state with a northwestern forest."

Another part of the letter read: "You have lost your standing, Mr. Mauthe, and it is felt that you are playing politics with the big interests."

"Water Desert" Is Found By Explorers In Pacific Ocean

BY HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
La Jolla, Calif. — (P) — There are "deserts" in the waters of the Pacific ocean as truly as there are deserts on land.

Existence of the watery wastes is brought to light in recent investigations by Dr. E. G. Moberg of the Scripps Institution of Oceanography and members of the Carnegie Institution of Washington. Already the geographical outlines are vaguely traced, but the effects upon the vast variety of life in the ocean are mostly still unknown.

The biggest one is a phosphate desert that fills most of the Pacific northward from the equator, almost from shore to shore, to a line drawn between southern California and Japan.

This area, near its surface, is poor in phosphates, which are indispensable fertilizers alike for plants of the land and of the sea. In the ocean the phosphates are used particularly by the microscopic plants, which are the basic food of all fish.

These plants, constituents of the so called plankton, develop mostly within 100 or 200 feet of the surface, growth at lower depths being prevented by an insufficient amount of sunlight.

In all the North Pacific, says Dr. Moberg, between latitudes 10 and 40, except a few stations near the California coast, the phosphates content is from five to 15 times smaller than in other Pacific waters. He attributes this condition to the nature of the surface currents, which form a sort of sea within a sea, and to the failure of the deeper, phosphate rich waters to mix with the surface water.

In the midst of this phosphate desert and especially south of it is the "oxygenless" water, or rather, water of a very low oxygen content. The latest discovery among oceanographers.

Oxygenless means lack of dissolved oxygen, that is, of oxygen from the air, and does not refer to the composition of water, each particle of which consists of two particles of hydrogen and one particle of oxygen.

Dr. Moberg, one of the scientists to discover the oxygen-deficient waste while aboard the yacht Carnegie, says it is not certain that fish could live in this water.

This layer is nearly oxygenless water, which has a thickness of about 1,500 feet and occurs at 300 or more feet below the surface, is considered another indication of the lake-like character of the upper water strata of the mid-Pacific.

Oxygen enters the sea at its surface, and the amount dissolved depends chiefly upon temperature, but also upon pressure and the action of waves and wind.

The ability of the water to dissolve or retain oxygen decreases as the water becomes warmer, and consequently more oxygen dissolves needed to reclothe the state with a northwestern forest."

OIL PAYS BILLS OF LONG BEACH; REDUCES TAXES

City Makes $1,000,000 Each Year—Spends Huge Amounts for Property

Long Beach, Calif. (AP)—How is a city to keep up with the expensive public improvements forced upon it by tripling in growth within a decade, and still keep the tax rate down?

Long Beach solved this in a manner as effective as unique. It went into the oil production business. And in nine years, its royalties from oil wells on city-owned lands have averaged over $1,000,000 yearly. The result has been the creation of many city parks, golf courses, additional police and fire stations, public comfort stations, hospitals, etc., without additional expense to the taxpayers.

And all from an original investment of $350,000 for purchase of a city water system. Plus the efficient guarding of city funds by Miss Myrtle L. Gursul, re-elected five times as city auditor.

The original investment was a bond issue in 1911, purchasing the water system and 670 acres of land as part of the system. There were expansions of this system, notably in 1920.

Discover Fields
In 1921, discovery of the world famous oil fields in Signal Hill—within the limits and suburbs of Long Beach—threw a big new industrial development upon the whole district. Any property adjacent to Signal Hill immediately became potential oil land—and the Long Beach water system's land directly adjoined the Signal Hill properties that were producing.

Offer Many Plans
Needless to say, with the money just rolling in, there were a million plans offered for spending it. But Miss Gursul—only woman auditor in a city of this size in America—was deaf to these pleas for cash. Foreseeing a tremendous growth for Long Beach, she foresaw, too, the expensive public improvements that would be imperative—docks, parks, etc. She also foresaw the inevitable result of some of these improvements in sections where the adjacent property could not pay the cost.

The result has been a careful allocation of oil revenue funds, with some assistance to departmental work. Long Beach has grown from 55,593 in 1920 to 142,032 in 1930. The oil fund from 1922 to July 1, 1930, received $9,013,508.18.

The outlay in park lands and improvements—affecting more than a dozen parks, golf courses, etc.—has been $1,662,397.18. For airport, site and development, $209,443.45 came from oil revenues instead of the taxpayers' purses. A public hospital and an isolation hospital were paid from oil income. Oil funds paid nearly $200,000 for additional police and fire stations.

Severage disposal, animal shelters, harbor dredging, a naval landing pier, life saving equipment, beach improvement, ornamental lighting, library construction and the improvement of many streets—these are a few of the activities Long Beach has been carrying on without cost to its taxpayers. It is estimated that without the oil royalties, the improvements would increase the city tax rate $28 to $30 per $1000 assessed valuation.

So oil royalties and a watchful city auditor make a fund-getting and fund-guarding combination that is unique in American cities.

STRAWBERRY ACREAGE CUT, PRICES BETTER

Lexington, Ky. (AP)—Prospects are good for better prices for strawberries in 1931, says the annual strawberry report of the College of Agriculture of the University of Kentucky.

An average acreage reduction of 11 per cent in 1931 is indicated, with conditions of strawberry fields poor. In Arkansas, Tennessee and Virginia, the reduction is expected to be 20 per cent, and in Missouri, Kansas, Illinois, Oklahoma, Kentucky, Delaware, Maryland and New Jersey 10 per cent.

The above diagram shows the paper boy's route in four straight lines, going from "A" to "B." This requires him to go out of bounds and consequently is not the shortest route, but it does not violate any conditions of the problem.

3,000 AMERICANS IN FOREIGN COLONY GROUP

Berlin (AP)—More than 3,000 Americans are among the 136,000 foreigners residing in Berlin. The foreign colony increased by 4,000 in six months.

The east of Europe is most heavily represented in Berlin. There are 30,000 Poles, 23,000 Austrians and almost as many Czechs and Russians living here.

Numerous too are the men without a country, the majority of whom are Russian émigrés. Almost 13,000 of them have found a second home in Berlin.

Time After Time Konjola Wins When All Else Tried Proved a Disappointment.

The experience of Mr. Albert Chase, 2605 E. 38th street, Little Rock, Ark., is significant. He says: "I became weak and nervous because of stomach and kidney disorders. For a month my feet were so swollen I could not wear my shoes. I bloated badly after meals and became short of breath. Konjola soon corrected my stomach ailment and the swelling left my feet. I am now able to do light work again."

Now consider carefully what Mrs. J. C. Rawls, 217 East Fourth street, Little Rock, Ark., has to say: "I suffered for years with stomach trouble. Constipation and weakened kidneys added to my misery. I began taking Konjola a few months time I felt like another person. Konjola completely relieved me and I shall always praise it."

Demand Konjola and get it; don't be switched to a substitute.

OLD GROUPS ARE THREATENED BY SPLIT IN RANKS

All Parties in English Politics Have Serious Internal Dissension

BY EDWARD STANLEY

London (AP)—Like new worlds flung from whirling planets, England's political parties seem to be flying apart. Each of the three—Conservative, Liberal, Labor—has its serious internal illness and it may take a general election to determine where to operate.

Most spectacular are the orders within the Labor party. Its hold on office is a hand-to-mouth affair, chiefly possible through support of the Liberals who might change their minds any day. Half a dozen times it has barely sneaked by on important votes.

Such disturbances thus excite the party, and now Sir Oswald Mosley has bolted clean out of the barn to set up his own party.

Sir Oswald is a young socialist with lots of money and lots of energy and lots of ideas. He maintains that the Laborites have become more interested in titles and silk court dress than in socialism. He proposes a strongly nationalistic but definite program.

Few Helpers
So far he has a bare handful of helpers, but he declares his "party" will have 400 candidates at the next general election. In the meantime he continues to denounce Labor.

Besides Mosley there are always the radical left-wingers, led by lanky James Maxton, to harry Prime Minister MacDonald.

In the Conservative party a sort of a three-cornered struggle is under way, and bare-knuckled, at that.

Lord Beaverbrook, the press magnate, has announced that he intends to bust the Tory party wide-open and has put candidates into several by-elections, supporting them not only in his newspapers but by personal appearance.

His program is one of "Empire free trade" which actually means a tariff as opposed to Britain's ancient free trade policy, and his attack centers on the Conservative leader, Stanley Baldwin.

Third Entrant
The third entrant in this intra-party ruckus is Winston Churchill, who may or may not be allied with Beaverbrook. Churchill's policy so far seems to consist of "a firm hand in India."

In the Liberal party the fight is between Lloyd George and Sir John Simon.

Sir John is a distinguished barrister, who headed the commission to India, and has Tory leanings. It is rumored that he, too, intends to start a new party, but this has no open foundation other than his criticism of the party's policies under Lloyd George.

The Liberal party has shrunk greatly since its hey-day during the war, but Lloyd George retains leadership and a certain amount of power through his support of the Labor party.

This support, he explains, is preferable to a conservative government, a sort of choice between two evils in his mind.

All this excitement within the parties seems to provoke little interest in an apathetic voting public. At a recent by-election only about half the qualified voters took the opportunity to make any indication of their desires, although the campaign itself was hot and furious.

The vehicular bridge under the Mersey river at Liverpool will be the largest of its kind in the world, providing for four lines of vehicles and a railway.

In the Hollow of Your Hand—Mother

That boy of yours—you hold him in the hollow of your hand. How he grows from year to year—how he gains in energy, manhood—all depend on how you feed and teach him.

The very principle of growth and energy is butter-fat—its most digestible form is milk. Your boy will drink milk eagerly if you add two teaspoonsful of Thompson's Chocolate "Double-Malted." It contains twice the malt enzymes of ordinary malted milks. Taken with meals it helps digest other foods.

FREE LIFE LINE CHART—A 6-inch, 16-page chart of the weight and height of the entire growing family. Send a postcard to Thompson's Malted Milk Co., Inc., Waukegan, Wisconsin.
